Three Left Dead in Wanton Shooting As Suspect Evades Police Dragnet

By THOMAS POWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police in 13 states today, sought Bobby Rogers, a Bronx tenement janitor suspected of the sidewalk slaying of three men, but authorities said they believed he was holed up somewhere in New York City still armed with a sawed-off carbine.

What at first appeared to be a senseless massacre by a berserk gunman may have been the outcome of a quarrel between the suspect and at least two of the slain men, a police officer said. The gunman, known to tenants as a "quiet, affable" man, moved down his victims and wounded a fourth in a barrage of 18 shots Thursday night.

Police records today showed that Rogers had been arrested here twice, in 1963 for felonious assault and two years ago for grand larceny. The assault charge later was dismissed. The 1966 charge was reduced to petty larceny and was marked "no disposition."

Circumstances of the arrests were not disclosed in police records.

Early today a dozen friends of one of the slain men, Manuel Angel Figueroa, 19, sat cross-legged on the scene on a south Bronx street and mourned around a makeshift altar at the spot where Figueroa fell. The altar was a rosary-draped parking meter to which a wooden cross and plastic statue of Jesus was attached.

The friends kept lighted a score of commemorative candles as neighbors came to watch and pray and toss coins into a garbage can lid to help pay for Figueroa's funeral.

Figueroa and two other Puerto Rican men were slain Thursday night on East 138th St. in the slum that is South Bronx. A man sprayed bullets from a .30 caliber automatic carbine. A fourth man was wounded slightly.

Somewhere in the ghetto, police said, a killer hid. Perhaps it was blocks, perhaps only yards from where Manuel Angel Figueroa's friends erected their cathedral - in - the slum.

cover and patrons and businessmen fell to the floor of stores lining the street. Police found 18 spent cartridges.

Authorities issued a 13-state alarm for Bobby Rogers, 31, a light-skinned Negro who was superintendent of a shabby, yellowed brick tenement at 678 E. 138th St., in front of which the shooting occurred. They said witnesses identified Rogers as the gunman. One policeman said that although the search was over a wide area, officials believed Rogers probably was hiding in the neighborhood.

The suspect had a thorough knowledge of the five - story tenement and its connections to other shabby buildings in the area. He simply disappeared into the building after the shootings.

Hundreds of police swarmed into the area. Under cover of automatic weapons, police wearing steel flak vests and head protectors and carrying tear gas guns searched the tenement, with no success. The basement of the building connects with at least two other identical adjacent tenements, police said.

It was not certain whether the victims were killed by design or by accident. Friends and relatives of the dead men - Figueroa, 19, Efraim Castro and Jose Rivera, both in their early 20s - indicated they were strangers and did not know the alleged gunman.

But an assistant district attorney for the Bronx, Burton Roberts, said there was "some evidence that they all knew each other." He declined to say more.

Turn Thumbs Down on County Tax Plan

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

The county-wide sales tax suffered an ominous setback Thursday night in what appeared to be a 23 to 9 test vote of the County Legislature on the need for additional revenue.

Seven city legislators, Minority Leader Roger W. Mabie, D-7th District, and Frank Muller, R-10th District voted for the measure calling for preparation of a proposed local law by the September meeting and the 2 per cent levy becoming effective Jan. 1, if adopted. The resolution was jointly introduced by city legislators John C. Sangaline, Melvin Mones, Wendell Scherer and Sam Perry, all Republicans.

Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye, R-2nd District prefaced his no vote by urging economies in county government instead of adding more taxes. He alluded to town assessors as holding the key to a broader tax base.

Terms Measure Premature

Ernest J. Gardner, R-11th District pointed out that the county was still in the process of studying the 1969 budget and at this time it was not possible to determine if additional revenues are needed. He termed the measure premature and cast a negative vote.

Joseph Martorana, R-9th District also termed the proposal premature. He said that before the measure comes to a vote it should be determined how the receipts of the tax would be allocated.

In defense of the proposal, Minority Leader Mabie said the body should look at the "big picture" and cited the population projection for the county. He said the population had increased by 50 per cent and the county now has to provide more services which indicated the need for additional revenues.

Melvin Mones, R-Kingston, defended the resolution and suggested the legislators take this initial step to be prepared if the revenues are needed when the 1969 budget is presented. He said the local law could be prepared for presentation by the September meeting and by that time the budget picture would be clear. Mones pointed out that this was not a vote on the actual sales tax but just a vote to prepare the local law and set the stage for a public hearing on the proposed levy.

City of Kingston officials have for some time been agitating for enactment of a county-wide sales tax to relieve Kingston businessmen who are doing business with the 2 per cent city sales tax handicap. The city tax has been effective since March.

Two Saugerties Democrats, Richard Thornton and Paul Brazier voted against the measure with the 21 Republicans.

The six-point state highway improvement study proposed by Legislator Martorana suffered a sharp defeat with only Martorana voting for the resolution. It was suggested by Minority Leader Mabie that the study be directed to the County Planning Board.

Another $133,817.19 check for the city as its share of the two per cent sales tax. Mayor Garaghan announced receipt of this today coupled with a statement "what do you expect, over the failure of the County Legislature to enact the county levy. Story on Page 3."

The legislators approved the setting of July 25 at 7:30 p. m. in the legislator's chambers for a public hearing on Ulster County Community College's $1,673,543 budget for 1969. The vote was unanimous.

Copies of the budget distributed by Dr. George B. Erbstein, college president and Robert Brown, dean of administration, noted an increase in the county's share of operating budget of $124,692 over last year's figure of $331,530.

The operating cost for the county will be $456,222 plus $32,500 for equipment. The total amount for equipment is $65,000, with half of the cost provided by state aid.

The budget report noted the $124,692 increase represents 26 per cent of the total increase while the anticipated increase in full-time enrollment for last semester is 36 per cent.

Estimated revenues will total $1,194,321 which includes an appropriated surplus of $23,000; student revenue $541,970 and the same amount from state aid. Both figures indicate an increase over last year of 39.7 per cent. This compares with the 39.4 per cent increase of the total budget.

The new $4.2 million county infirmary came closer to reality with the appointment of Albert E. Milliken, local architect to prepare plans for the structure.

The plans are needed to apply for federal Hill-Burton funds. Under the proposal the county would pay one-third of the cost and the state and federal government would make up the other two-thirds. Majority Leader Dye, author of the resolution, explained the procedure.

Adoption of the measure authorizes Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago to enter into contract with Milliken for architectural services.

The legislators approved the establishment of a County Recreation and Parks Commission on a measure introduced by Mones and Lester C. Elmdorff, R-2nd District. The measure calls for the appointment by Chairman Savago of five members, and $500 for initial expenses was appropriated from the contingency fund.

Award Bridge Contract
The bid of James Berardi, Inc., Kingston, of $133,291.40 was approved and a contract awarded for the construction of County Bridge 192, Beech Hill Bridge in the Town of Hardenbergh which spans the Beaverkill. The old iron and wooden plank span would be demolished and a steel beam highway bridge erected near the site.

Frank L. Miller, R-2nd District, chairman of the Bridge and Highway Committee offered the proposal.

Appraisal of county-owned buildings was approved. Industrial Appraisal Company was awarded the $14,400 contract to do the work.

A measure proposed by Minority Leader Mabie to increase the penalty for littering to $250 was referred to the County Planning Board for further study. The Woodstock Republican, in the resolution, asked all candidates to eliminate the use of billboards and posters because they "despoil beauty of the area."

Legislator William West's proposal for a study on regulating billboards was referred to the County Planning Board for further study. The Woodstock Republican, in the resolution, asked all candidates to eliminate the use of billboards and posters because they "despoil beauty of the area."

Saigon Suicide Attacks Imminent, Extra Guards Posted at Key Spots

SAIGON (AP)—A terrorist shot and seriously wounded a U.S. soldier in downtown Saigon today amid reports that Viet Cong suicide commandos are expected to raid the South Vietnamese capital at any time.

Extra guards were posted at the U.S. Embassy and other key installations, and police were put on 100 per cent alert. The raids, if they come, likely would open the third Viet Cong offensive of the year against Saigon, an attack that has been expected for weeks.

Assailant Escapes

The terrorist's victim was shot three times less than a mile from the presidential palace and taken to an Army hospital. His assailant escaped.

The assassination attempt was the first against an American reported in Saigon since the Viet Cong's second offensive against the capital in May.

U.S. sources said they had no confirmation of the South Vietnamese intelligence reports warning of commando raids. But American troops "are in a complete state of readiness to meet any enemy attacks" and have been for months, a spokesman said.

But Vietnamese police sources said guards were increased at the U.S. Embassy, where a Viet Cong suicide squad struck Jan. 30 at the beginning of the Tet offensive and held out for several hours in the embassy grounds. More government troops also were sent to bridges leading into the city and various checkpoints on Saigon's outskirts.

Reports of Attacks

High-ranking Vietnamese officials said they had received reports the American Embassy would be attacked again and the national police headquarters would be another target.

An unconfirmed report said the Viet Cong had stolen an official U.S. car, apparently to fill it with explosives and use it to attack an American installation. U. S. Embassy security men armed with machine guns were seen at the Rex, one of the major U.S. officers' billets, checking American cars for explosives.

One South Vietnamese source said the Viet Cong "have to make a noise" before July 20: the 14th anniversary of the Geneva agreements which divided Vietnam.

"They have been losing so much they have to boost the morale of their troops," the source added.

11,000 of Foe Near
Intelligence sources say about 11,000 enemy troops are within quick striking distance of the capital, and more are reported on the way.

U.S. 9th Division infantrymen sweeping around Saigon flushed out an enemy platoon 18 miles southwest of the city Thursday and reported killing 10 Viet Cong soldiers in a brief fight.

Another small break in the lull in the ground war was reported just below the demilitar-

Fourth Annual Pow Wow of Champions Scheduled by Indians For August 10

Kingston Indians, and its junior corps, Troops 12 Indians Drum and Bugle Corps, will sponsor their fourth annual Junior Pow Wow of Champions at Dietz Stadium, Aug. 10 at 8 p.m.

This international championship contest will feature seven top corps from the United States and Canada in competition for the coveted '69 Pow Wow Title, and exhibitions by the host corps, the Indians. Corps entered that have previously competed in Kingston include the Les Metropolitains from Montreal, Quebec, the Garfield Cadets from Garfield, N. J., and the P.A.L. Cadets from Bridgeport, Conn.

Those that will be appearing in this city for the first time will include the St. Raphael's Golden Buccaneers from Bridgeport, Conn., St. Joseph's Patrons from Brooklyn, the Shoreliners from Milford, Conn., and the St. Aeden's Emerald Cadets from New Haven, Conn.

For those that are already drum corps fans, this year's show promises to be one of the best held in this area. To those who have never seen a modern drum corps contest, this presents an opportunity to discover a very new experience.

The Kingston Indians are appearing in new uniforms this year, maintaining the Indian theme, but custom-adapted to a military appearance. People attending the Pow Wow will see why they have been getting standing ovations where they have been performing. Led on the field by Drum Major "Chick" Buboltz, and expertly aided by Assistant Drum Major John Sottile, Color Captain Peter Wells and Color Sergeant William Reynolds, the Corps will drill to their '68 repertoire which includes: Indian Fanfare, Dagger Dance, Apache, High Noon, Old Devil Moon, Similau, Bound for the Promised Land, Battle Hymn of the Republic, and Big Country.

$133,817 Tax Share for Kingston

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan today, issued a "What do you expect" statement over the failure of the Ulster County Legislature to adopt a county sales tax at its meeting last night.

At the same time, the Mayor confirmed receipt of another check from the state, this one for $133,817.19 as the city's share of the two per cent sales tax, started on March 1.

Coupled with a previous check of $80,000, sent two weeks ago by the state, Kingston's share from March 1 through May 30 comes to $213,817.19.

When Garraghan proposed the sales tax for the city, he estimated that receipts from March through December of this year would amount to about $325,000 and said that in 1969, the city's share of the tax should amount to $1,100,000.

This additional check from the state is ample proof that I wasn't going overboard when I estimated the revenue the city would derive from a sales tax," the mayor said.

When the Common Council adopted the tax earlier in the year, merchants of the city claimed it would drive shoppers out of Kingston and lead to the eventual ruin of the city's merchant community.

The merchants expressed favor to a county sales tax or even a regional tax, encompassing most of the counties in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

However, city officials remained firm in the face of the heavy criticism from the businessmen. Peter Mancuso, Common Council finance chairman said, "No one likes taxes but they are the only way to pay the city's bills which have increased markedly in the past few years."

The city itself does not collect in the mail, the checks for two per cent of the monies collected. The initial payment of $80,000 arrived on June 28 and the second was received this morning. The next check is expected about the 10th of August.

Retirement, Sewer District Ulster Board Discussions

By LYNN MULVANEY

The Town of Ulster will request entry into the state's retirement system on a contributory basis, it was decided at a meeting of the Town Board last night.

Participation would benefit town employees who would pay an equal share. Ulster expects the necessary information as to procedure will be forthcoming from the state.

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz also reported that the board discussed the Ulster Sewer District and is now awaiting delivery of the engineer's maps which the being revised. A date will then be set for a public hearing which will be followed by a mandatory referendum for the people living in the district involved.

Plans for a new garage and town hall were discussed with the supervisor stressing the need to protect valuable highway equipment which is now, out of necessity, exposed to all kinds of weather. He said a public informational meeting will be held prior to a town-wide referendum.

Musialkiewicz told of a letter received from the Town Planning Board Chairman, Francis E. Mulvaney, informing the board that a joint meeting of the Hurley and Ulster planners resulted in Hurley's refusal to favor a joint water district with Ulster.

Retirement, Sewer District — Musialkiewicz, who has applied for a 50 per cent grant for the project, said he would call a public meeting of Spring Lake residents to consider the matter.

Doris Mulvin reported to the board that the zoning ordinance is now in the hands of a planning consultant. An informational meeting will be scheduled when the ordinance is drawn.

A request for a speed zone for Sunrise Park was referred to the State Division of Traffic Control.

A request for a street light at the intersection of Main Street and Sheehan Lane, Ruby, was authorized.

Supervisor Musialkiewicz proposed to the board that a study be conducted on the feasibility of erecting a housing project for senior citizens in the Town of Ulster.

Information received from County Legislator Paul Brazier was considered in relation to proposed tax mapping and revaluation. The board decided it had insufficient information with which to draw a conclusion at this time.

A amendment to the present dog ordinance will be aired at a public hearing Aug. 1 at 7 p. m. in the Grange Hall. It calls for inoculation of all dogs against rabies.

At the same time a proposed dumping law will be considered.

On Car Insurance

There's big trouble in auto insurance and the federal government has initiated an investigation of the car insurance industry.

Insurance rates have soared—up 44 per cent in 10 years. In spite of this, the companies are not getting rich. At least 80 firms have failed since 1961 and thousands of policyholders were stranded until they reinsured.

If the investigation just points the finger only at the insurance firms, it will be doing an injustice. In the first place the insurers are taking steps to correct some of the inadequacies. In addition, the entire field of auto insurance and everything that affects it like Topsy "just grew" without any coherent planning, standardization or establishment of values and guidelines.

Thus, there is a maze of state requirements and regulations varying from compulsory insurance to no requirements at all.

There is a wild variation in damage awards and the trend has become increasingly higher. There is more than a suspicion in some cases of shoddy shenanigans involving those suing and those being sued.

Courtrooms are jammed with liability cases and delays before trial go on for years.

The insurance industry points out with validity that any meaningful reforms involve questions of equity and public policy which will have to be resolved by our whole society.

Automobile traffic has skyrocketed in recent years to such an extent that a mounting incidence of accidents is inevitable even under the best of conditions.

Finally, the real villain in the automobile situation is not the insurance industry, nor the government, but the irresponsible driver who causes most accidents.

Wage-Price Guideline

The last three years, Arthur M. Ross has been Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, where he was in charge of the Consumer Price Index. Upon retiring to become vice president of the University of Michigan, he expressed his personal faith in the wage-price index, with modifications to make it work.

Ross said that the wage-price index should not be arbitrarily imposed but negotiated each year between the three interested parties—labor, management and government. And that it should be economically sound.

For three and a half years, the wage-price index did some good before they were ended in 1966. The era that followed of wages that had no relation to productivity and prices that tried to preserve some relation with wages brought on the runaway inflation under which we are still suffering.

"I would have the Government promulgate every year a wage and price rise figure that would be sound economically," Rose said. "I would involve labor and management integrally. I wouldn't think the figure would come by agreement among labor, management and Government, but would be negotiated rather than arbitrarily imposed."

There is a formula for the incoming President to put to the test. Insofar as it holds the promise of halting inflation, it could be one of his most useful acts soon after inauguration.

Control of Aging

During this century, the average life expectancy has been dramatically increased. Yet the maximum life span has changed little throughout recorded history. The diseases of aging continue to limit the life span.

Now comes Dr. Howard J. Curtis, a senior biologist at the Brookhaven National Laboratories, who suggests that it might be possible ultimately to control aging by treating the body so that its DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) the hereditary substance that provides for the continuity of life, remained stable.

In a paper presented at a symposium on medical chemistry at Laval University in Quebec, Dr. Curtis argued that gradual modification of DNA throughout the body leads to aging and the diseases of old age. Knowledge of what makes some DNA molecules more stable than others might lead to treatment of the human body to stabilize its DNA and thereby control the aging process.

All of the information needed to control the structure and function of every body cell is coded in DNA molecules. Thus, DNA, is the key, not only to heredity but to the functioning of life. It is a breathtaking prospect, one that in time and after much painstaking testing one day may lead to the discovery of how aging may be controlled.

President Johnson has reaffirmed his pledge to seek the vote for 18-year-olds as a national affirmation of faith in our youth. He said democracy speaks out in the ballot box, the ballot is the right on which all others rest. The vote at 18 is definitely on the way.

David Lawrence Says

U.S. Court Denounced By Pa. Chief Justice

WASHINGTON — It isn't often that Chief Justice of the highest court of one of the largest states in the union speaks out publicly in denunciation of several opinions of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Chief Justice John C. Bell, Jr., of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in addressing the convention of the District Attorneys' Association of his state, bemoaned the fact that the United States has become a "land of unrest, lawlessness, violence and disorder—a land of turmoil, of rioting, looting, shootings."

The main theme of Justice Bell's speech is contained in the following paragraph:

"The recent decisions of a majority of the Supreme Court of the United States which shackle the police and the courts and make it terrifically difficult—as you well know—to protect society from crime and criminals, are, I repeat, among the principal reasons for the turmoil and the near-revolutionary conditions which prevail in our country, and especially in Washington."

Discussing the reasons why respect for law and order, as well as respect for "any public or private authority," is rapidly vanishing, Justice Bell blames a number of factors. First, he says, many political leaders are stirring up unrest, discontent and greed, and many racial, church and college leaders are advocating "mass civil disobedience and intentional violation of any and every law which a person dislikes."

While the Justice agrees that there is need for reforms and that the poor and the unemployed must be helped, he declares that this does not justify the breaking of any of our laws, the resort to violence, burning and looting or property, or sit-ins, lie-ins, and blockading of buildings.

But the Pennsylvania jurist also points out that the "blackmailing demands" of those who advocate defiance of law and order "under the cloak of worthy objectives"—and who commit all kinds of illegal actions which are miscalled "civil rights"—are harming and not helping their cause. He says:

"Let's face it—a dozen recent revolutionary decisions by a majority of the Supreme Court of the United States in favor of murders, robbers, rapists and other dangerous criminals, which astonish and dismay countless law-abiding citizens who look to our courts for protection and help, and the mollycoddling of lawbreakers and dangerous criminals by many judges—each and all of these are worrying and frightening millions of law-abiding citizens and are literally jeopardizing the future welfare of our country. Is this still America?"

Chief Justice Bell calls on the District Attorneys to see that persons who violate the law are prosecuted promptly, and to conduct the prosecutions so as to "comply with all the recently created technical standards" set up by Supreme Court rulings. He recommends, however, that the District Attorneys' Association take a position publicly with respect to every decision of the Supreme Court of the United States which "the association is convinced is unfair to our law-abiding people and is unjustified by the Constitution and any statutory law."

He urges that a copy of all the association's recommendations, resolutions and criticisms be sent to members of Congress, state legislators and the Supreme Court of the United States itself. Chief Justice Bell concludes:

"Finally, you must fight with all your might and power and as never before for all the law-abiding people of our wonderful state who are consciously or unconsciously relying upon you and the courts to protect them from felonious criminals and from all law-breakers."

Justice Bell, a Republican, was elected in 1959 for a 21-year term on the State Supreme Court and became Chief Justice by seniority. His address, delivered this week, is one of the most vehement denunciations of the Supreme Court of the United States since 1958 when the conference of state chief justices, by a vote of 36 to 8, adopted a report criticizing the high court for a lack of "judicial self-restraint" and for rendering decisions that were not in keeping with the spirit or the letter of the Constitution itself.

Drew Pearson Says Congressmen Seal Their Report On Burton-Taylor Love Life

WASHINGTON — One of the most carefully guarded confidential reports on Capitol Hill pertains to the love life of Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. It is tightly partly because it shows that Rep. Michael Feighan, the Cleveland, Ohio, Democrat, had nothing better to do than pry into the alleged indiscretions of these famous lovers. The official excuse, of course, was to protect the nation from "material offensive to public morals" by barring Burton from playing "Hamlet" in New York.

At any rate, the transcript was "sealed forever." However, we have obtained a copy and believe the nation is strong enough to survive its most lurid passages.

Rep. Feighan, as chairman of the House Immigration Committee, began gravely: "The subcommittee will come to order. The purpose of this meeting is to inquire into the administration of the Immigration and Nationality Act in the context of the Richard Burton case."

He called as his key witness Abba Schwartz, then in charge of the State Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

"Do I understand," demanded indignant Feighan, "that the bureau that you administer regards the flaunting of immorality as a public virtue, as unworthy of special concern? I just ask you, surely you do not mean that the public overtones and public undertones of the Burton-Taylor case so evident to the mature mind were not recognized by this experienced consular officer?" (Feighan referred to the official who issued the Burton visa.)

"I think he performed his functions correctly under the existing laws and regulations," said Schwartz.

"Were you or the visa-issuing officer aware of statements made by responsible religious leaders in the United States decrying the evil effects of this widely publicized international escapade... upon the morals of our American youth?" asked the Congressman from Cleveland.

"I am personally unaware of those," said Schwartz. He went on to explain that even an admission of adultery would not have barred Burton from the country.

"I want to know," inquired Rep. Arch Moore, R-W. Va., "is Richard Burton guilty of adultery?"

"I have no knowledge," said Schwartz helplessly.

"I assume, having seen the affectionate embraces spread across the newspapers of America, it is reasonable to conclude that at some time or other this indiscretion has occurred," suggested Moore. He merely wanted to know what the "indiscretion" would be called in view of Burton's status as a divorced man.

"I do not have an answer whether or not the divorced person is guilty of adultery," Schwartz said. "There is no question that the married person is."

"There is not any question," added Moore sternly, "that his coming to the United States is to deal in an immoral act, whether the term 'adultery' or 'immoral act' is interchangeable... Certainly, he is going to come in here for sexual reasons, at least, which is the very, very minimum."

"He is coming in here principally... as far as I know," suggested Schwartz, "to appear in the play 'Hamlet' in New York."

"Have you considered revocation of the visa issued to Mr. Richard Burton?" inquired Feighan.

"Mr. Chairman," confessed Schwartz, "I have not."

"Well, why not?" demanded Feighan.

"I do not know the ground of revocation," Schwartz replied.

Another Official Quizzed Immigration Commissioner

Raymond Farrell was summoned next behind closed. He explained that Burton had been permitted to stop in Los Angeles on his way to Canada, where he was rehearsing for "Hamlet."

"We felt that since we did not have any evidence at the time which would enable us to really substantiate an exclusion order, that we would wait until he came back in from Canada and hope that in the meantime we might be able to acquire some," Farrell suggested hopefully. He offered to question Burton about his love life at some neutral point on the Canadian border.

"At a border point?" asked Moore.

"Yes, sir," said Farrell.

"Perhaps at Niagara Falls." As it happened, Burton demonstrated his honorable intentions by marrying Miss Taylor in Canada. If they stopped at Niagara Falls, it was for a honeymoon.

Note: Abba Schwartz later was hounded out of the State Department by the congressional vigilantes who by blocking immigration want to keep America a closed society. He has now written an engrossing book about his misadventures in government. It is called "The Open Society."

Rockets and Saigon The Army is finding it almost impossible to stop the rocket shelling of Saigon.

The guerrillas sneak into a rice paddy and mold rocket launchers out of mud in the dikes. The mud is shaped into the exact circumference of the rocket, then dried under the hot sun until it hardens.

The mud launchers are carefully angled to guide rockets into Saigon. By this means, one guerrilla can launch a volley of rockets by wiring them all to a single ignition device and setting them off with flashlight batteries.

By the time the Americans figure out where the rockets came from, the lone guerrilla has disappeared.

French Elections Point Up Valuable Lesson for U.S.

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There's a lesson for the United States in the recent French elections.

Whether one likes Gen. Charles de Gaulle or resents him, the vote was exceedingly revealing: The government party men won heavily.

Strong gains were made by other moderate candidates. The extremist groups, which seemed so powerful in the universities and on the streets or Paris, took a thrashing at the polls.

Yet there was a period only a brief time back when it was predicted the roaring, rioting students and their allies would bring the downfall of the French government.

Authority, it was said, would collapse.

There is a strange tendency in this country to believe that a few hundred or a few thousand shouting, burning men and women somehow represent the will of the majority.

That belief is intensified and the cause somehow made just if the rioters are led by a small group of students and professors or by men and women in the arts and professions.

A few rioting students, including 14- and 15-year-olds, triggered the fall of a government in Saigon a few years back.

The antagonism toward President Diem of South Vietnam by quite a small group of what were termed "intellectuals" caused the United States to turn its back on Diem, opening the door for a military coup and diem's assassination.

Student riots in a number of other Latin and Asian countries have set off coups, revolutions and other violent types of government take-over in the past 40 years.

The situation was so bad in Mexico roughly two decades ago that the government moved the University of Mexico out of the center of the capital hoping thus to reduce the disrupting political influence of demonstrating, rioting students. The university was rebuilt in the suburbs, so that police and troops could block student marchers from the politically strategic city center.

In most of these student political riots, which have ranged from Mexico to Panama to Chile, from Japan to Vietnam to Indonesia and from Germany to France to Italy in times gone by, the students have been reinforced by two types of "ringers": The perennial student, not study, who takes a few easy courses year after year.

The outsider, who moves in from an organized group in the city to lend his technical skills to the student demonstrations.

These ringers were present in the French riots. They were at Columbia, California and other major shows of force on American university campuses.

Despite the crucial influence some student riots have had on governments, a careful analysis of those student riots this reporter has detailed knowledge of indicates that despite some notable exceptions more often than not they represent the will of only a small minority of students and nonstudents alike.

Ronan's $70,000 a Year Job

By GERRY MCLAUGHLIN
ALBANY, N.Y. AP — A

man who was little known to the public when he was Gov. Rockefeller's secretary is proving emphatically that government service can indeed be rewarding.

Just over a decade ago, William J. Ronan, a Phi Beta Kappa and dean of New York University's Graduate School of Public Administration and Social Service, was drawing something in the neighborhood of $20,000 a year.

Today, after serving as secretary and chief idea man to Rockefeller for nearly 10 years, the 55-year-old Buffalo native is chairman of the massive Metropolitan Transportation Authority MTA. The MTA reported the other day that Ronan recently was voted a $25,000 pay boost, to $70,000 a year.

Only President Johnson, who receives $100,000 a year, earns a bigger salary as a public official.

That report was more than enough to quicken the pulses of public officials throughout the state. For it seemed to accelerate the trend, in this state government, at least, toward bigger and bigger financial returns for handling big jobs.

Even Ronan's detractors — and there are some in high Republican councils — acknowledge his contributions to the Rockefeller record and his accomplishments as a transportation innovator.

But $70,000?

The MTA governing board doesn't seem concerned by the size of the increase. Fiscal whiz William Shea — the man they named the stadium after — spoke for the board in defense of the boost.

He noted that many top policy-makers in the private corporate sector of the nation's economy earn upwards of $100,000 a year. He pointed out that the chairman's job now carries even heavier responsibilities, since the MTA took over the Transit Authority and the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority.

But the emergence of Ronan as the second-highest paid public official in the 50 states undoubtedly will not go unnoticed by young people who are considering a career in government.

They have other examples of the financial potential in top professional government jobs. Edward J. Logue, for instance, the hard-nosed straw boss of the urban renovation projects in New Haven and Boston, has taken a similar job with New York State at $40,000 a year.

Dr. James E. Allen, education commissioner, and State University President Samuel B. Gould now receive $45,000 a year.

Under Rockefeller's administration, there has developed a belief that the state would have to pay a top dollar to woo top men away from the financial rewards of private enterprise.

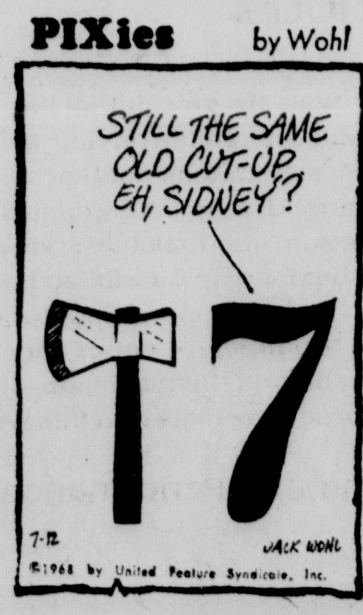

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

July 12, 1948 — Plans were in progress for the annual Ulster County Fair in Forsyth Park Aug. 18.

The Stone Ridge Grange planned its second annual flower show to be held late in the summer.

The Woodstock Riding Club set Sept. 12 as the date of its next horse show.

July 12, 1958 — A series of severe electrical storms passed over this area accompanied by heavy rain and some hail. Damage was "scattered" and confined mostly to the Rondout Valley from Kingston to Kerhonkson. The tentative state equalization rate for Pine Hill was established at 25, the same as the year before, it was announced today by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

8 The Black Rebels

The history of American slavery is marked by the occurrence of at least 250 reported Negro conspiracies and revolts.

—Herbert Aptheker

Among the many myths about the Negro is the claim that he must have been well-suited for slavery because he never rebelled. In truth, he did rebel, time and again, beginning as early as 1502 on Hispaniola, 10 years after Columbus' first voyage.

The African slave trade was ever a dangerous business. Slaves frequently mutinied, and sometimes succeeded. Other cases are on record of whole boatloads of slaves jumping overboard or otherwise committing suicide.

The first revolt in what was to be the United States took place in present-day South Carolina in 1526 when Negroes killed their Spanish masters and fled to the Indians. In 1663, a conspiracy among black slaves and white servants was put down in Virginia. In 1712, 21 slaves were publicly executed in New York City for their part in a revolt. In 1739, a slave named Cato led a revolt at Stono, S.C., in which 25 whites were killed.

Following the Revolution, a band of Negroes who had been trained by the British and who called themselves "the King of England's soldiers" waged guerrilla warfare from the swamps of Georgia. Many slaves fled to Florida and joined the Seminoles in their long war against the white man.

The greatest rebellion of all occurred on Haiti in the last decade of the 18th century, led by the brilliant Toussaint L'Ouverture. This revolution forced Napoleon to give up his dream of an empire in America. Thus a Negro freedom fighter helped make it possible for the United States to double its size through the Louisiana Purchase from France in 1803.

A major revolt was attempted in Virginia in 1800. A storm, plus betrayal, foiled the plan of one Gabriel Prosser and 1,000 fellow slaves to seize Richmond.

The most elaborate conspiracy, involving thousands of Negroes, was led by a former slave, Denmark Vesey, in Charleston, S.C., in 1822. But several years of planning were upset by the betrayal of a house servant.

The most famous insurrection of all, and the one that inspired the most terror throughout the South, was that of Nat Turner, a mystic who received signs from heaven. On August 21, 1831, he and 70 other slaves attacked farms in Southampton County, Va. Before they were defeated, 60 white men, women and children were dead.

Nat Turner was hanged at a town called Jerusalem.

NEXT: Crisis and Compromise

Approval of Sub Rickover Victory

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford has set the stage for a possible expansion of the U.S. nuclear attack submarine force with his approval of a new superfast model.

Clifford told a news conference Thursday he has ordered the top scientific and technical brains to work on the vessel, understood to carry a price tag of around $185 million.

This is $100 million more than the latest Sturgeon class atomic sub whose mission is to hunt and kill enemy underwater craft.

Another Faces Ax

The authorization was a partial victory for Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the Navy's nuclear expert, who was pushing the Pentagon for advanced American submarines to meet the growing Soviet undersea force.

But as Clifford announced he had authorized the new sub Rickover helped design, he left open the possibility another Rickover favorite—a superquiet sub—may get the ax.

This submarine, which could track enemy vessels with great stealth, was approved last year but the Pentagon has been threatening to abandon it to save money.

Rickover, a congressional favorite, has been arguing through Capitol Hill committees for the quiet sub, but the outlook has dimmed. Clifford said a decision on its fate will be forthcoming in the next few weeks.

The approved sub—Clifford didn't say how much faster it would be than present 30-knot vessels—is slated for full budgeting in 1970, defense officials said. Long-lead-time parts are sought under the fiscal 1969 budget now before Congress.

The authorized nuclear attack force stands at 69 submarines, about half of which have been built, with the other half either under construction or approved.

Work on the last four is scheduled to begin in 1969 and 1970, and defense officials said the high-speed version will be one of the last two models.

Officials say this leaves open the possibility that after 1970 the 69-ship ceiling might be raised to permit construction of more of the new superfast subs, highly advanced over the latest Sturgeon class, to maintain a check on the Soviet submarine fleet.

Pentagon Prodded

Congress has been prodding the Pentagon to make certain the United States maintains qualitative if not quantitative superiority over the Soviet Union in this field.

Attack submarines are gaining in importance as the Soviets move to deploy more atomic subs capable of launching long-range ballistic missiles.

The Soviets currently have more than 400 submarines, including an unspecified number of missile-launching types, plus nuclear-powered and diesel-driven attack craft.

The U.S. sub force stands at 146 which includes 41 polaris missile boats—nothing more than nuclear-powered launch platforms—and 105 attack submarines, two-thirds of which are diesel vessels built during World War II.

Going to Vietnam

Clifford also told reporters he is going to Vietnam Saturday.

his first trip to the war zone as defense chief.

Along with Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Army Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Clifford will be conducting talks with battlefield commanders on how to deal with what the defense secretary said was "the possibility of a new offensive on the part of enemy forces in July or possibly August."

Clifford said intelligence reports show the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have built up their strength to eight or more divisions below the demilitarized zone.

In spite of this increase, Clifford said the restricted, though heavy bombing of North Vietnam has been "quite an effective operation."

The enemy pays "an increasingly high cost—as they go through the panhandle south of the 20th parallel," he told newsmen.

Pueblo Resolution Due

State Marines Meeting in City

By WALTER S. CLARK

A resolution calling on Washington officials to take immediate steps to secure the release of the U. S. Pueblo and its crew, will be offered at a business session during the 37th annual convention of the Department of New York Marine Corps League.

Gov. Clinton Sessions

The resolution had previously been unanimously passed by the Ulster Detachment Marine Corps League at its Spring meeting. If it is adopted at the current convention being held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, it will be forwarded to the National convention to convene in Bridgeport, Conn. in August.

Gilbert E. Gray, chairman of the state convention, and a delegation of members representing the Ulster Detachment will attend next month's sessions.

The resolution on the Pueblo notes that the Marine Corps League opposes any further delay in the return of the ship to the United States by the government of North Korea. The resolution reads in part:

"We strongly resent the fact that our ship, the Pueblo and her entire crew was kidnapped on the high seas by a foreign power, and since the time of capture we have been unable to make any headway in securing her release and the release of the crew." Urging immediate action to recover the ship, the resolution notes, "no matter what steps they find necessary to take," should be taken by Washington officials to return the Pueblo and its crew to this country.

The 37th convention of the

New York Marine Corps League opened Thursday with a staff meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The event was officially opened at 10 a.m. today followed by business sessions of the League and its auxiliary.

A Country Barn dance is scheduled in the Crystal Room of the hotel at 8 p.m. today.

Banquet Saturday

Saturday's program will open with a business session in the Garden Lounge followed by a luncheon in the General Sharpe room for past department presidents. A memorial service is planned for 1 p.m. tomorrow at Academy Green, followed by business sessions and a cocktail party from 7 to 7:45 p.m.

A military ball and banquet in the Crystal Room will start at 8 p.m. Saturday.

A Department staff meeting will be held Sunday at the direction of the newly elected department officers.

The Ulster Detachment is hosting approximately 300 members of the state unit.

Demo Chief on Chicago: A Pullout Still Possible

By GARY GREENBAUM

CHICAGO (AP) — More than $1.3 million has been spent so far in Chicago for the Democratic National Convention, which may be moved out of the city unless a strike affecting preparations is settled.

Mayor Richard J. Daley, a power in Democratic party councils, repeatedly has laughed off reports his city might lose the convention. He has insisted the convention will go on in Chicago Aug. 26 as scheduled.

No Plans Yet

But Tuesday John M. Bailey, chairman of the Democratic National Committee which runs the quadrennial nominating conventions, said, "I don't rule out the possibility we might move if the labor difficulties are not resolved by the end of next week."

Bailey added that there are no present plans for a move.

Daley continues to tell newsmen: "We'll have a good, old-fashioned, old-time Democratic convention with the delegates in charge and maybe without you media folks all over the place."

A strike in progress since May 8 against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is threatening the convention that would bring thousands of delegates, alternates, their wives and families, plus other thousands of aides and onlookers to Chicago for most of a week.

On strike and picketing are members of a local of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. These are the specialists who install telephones, television cables and other communications equipment in the International Amphitheatre, the convention hall, and hotels where the delegations set up headquarters.

Hot Dogs

TOKYO (UPI)—A Japanese industrial firm will market an electric heater to warm dog houses—the first dog house heater ever developed. Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. said the gimmick will go on sale in August, a hot month in Tokyo.

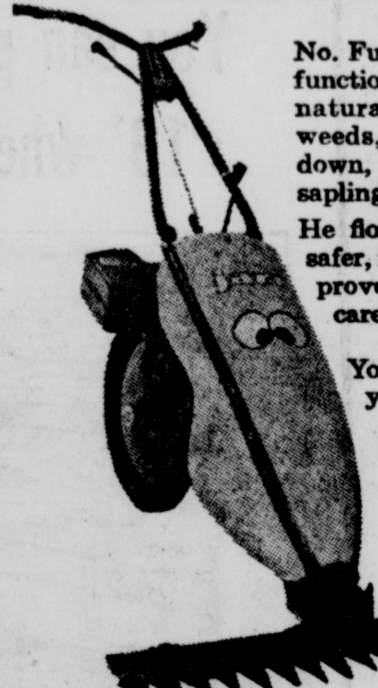

A picket line at any of these locations most likely would keep other craftsmen off the job — carpenters, painters and others needed to get the hall and rooms into shape.

Joseph O'Brien, Bell spokesman, said the longer the strike continues "the less facilities for news coverage there will be." He said Bell has spent $400,000 of the $1.5 million it expects to spend on installations. This would be lost if the convention moved to another city.

O'Brien said television network coverage might be impossible if the strike goes on much longer. "Installing their lines is the most time consuming, and time is what we're running out of. Only so many men fit in a manhole; we couldn't make up the delay by adding extra crews."

The city of Chicago will have to write off more than $400,000 if the convention falls through, officials said. Chicago pledged $750,000 to the party's expense chest and threw in an additional $300,000 promise for miscellaneous expenses.

In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister, Jane M. Ennist, who passed away one year ago today, July 12, 1967.

Dear Jane:
One lonely year has passed away, and it just does not seem true, for our hearts are so heavy, with love, and longing just for you. Each time we look at your picture it seems we can hear you say "Hello Mom and Pop, and how is Tommy, and how do you feel today?" Jane, we are so lonesome for you, but I guess we will have to wait for God above to call us home and join you in Heaven, where you wait.

Memoriam
In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Jane M. Ennist, who passed away one year ago today, July 12, 1967.

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled
The heart is heavy.

That loved us well and true,
Ah, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.
You are not forgotten loved one,
Nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore.
At time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

Rochester Passes Dumping Measure

A public hearing was held prior to last night's Rochester Town Board Meeting at Accord for discussion on a proposed amendment dealing with dumping regulations at the town dump. It is reported that no private citizens attended the hearing.

After a short discussion, the Board unanimously passed a resolution which prohibits the junking of abandoned or useless autos at the dump. A fine of five dollars or a term of five days in jail was set for offenders of the new law. The decision will go on the books as an amendment to a 1954 law which prohibits the discarding of dead animals on the Town's dumping facilities.

The Board members also agreed to purchase a machine-trailer at a cost of $5,874. The new equipment will be financed through a budget note to be payable in Feb. 1969.

Ulster Heights Home Damaged By Blaze

Fire caused extensive damage to a one-story frame building on the property of the Grandview Bungalow Colony owned by the Kramer family at Ulster Heights this morning.

Ellenville fire units in charge of Chief George Garrison and Assistant Chief Robert Madden were dispatched to the scene after the fire was reported to police at 5:23 a. m. Firemen pumped water from a nearby swimming pool to add to the supply on the fire apparatus as they battled the blaze.

Madden said the building where the fire erupted near a chimney is occupied by sleeping quarters in the rear, a store and laundry operated by Sarah Brenen. Fire officials said the flames extended through the center of the building and burned through the roof.

Fire units reported back in service at 7:10 a. m. Officials said the exact cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, and reported the fire started near a chimney. Madden noted that at no time were other buildings in the bungalow colony in danger.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Deputy Police Inspector Allen Oldenburg said Tuesday a new state law requiring all motorcycle riders to wear approved crash helmets is being watched carefully by Milwaukee police. Oldenburg said it's not certain the city's motorcycle police crash helmets meet the requirements.

CAIRO (UPI)—Egypt and Israel exchanged artillery fire for 2½ hours across the southern tip of the Suez Canal Monday, Egyptian officials said. The longest cross-canal duel in nine months was started by the Israelis, the Egyptians said, and both sides suffered casualties.

Shows Displeasure

Legislator Frank L. Miller, R-2nd District, this week expressed his displeasure with the repairs being made on the U&D bridge on Hurley Mountain Road.

Miller, chairman of the Legislature's Bridge and Highways Committee, in a letter to State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, R-Ulster-Dutchess, said partially repairing this bridge is no answer to the problem. The county is responsible for the roadbed. The Ulster and Delaware Division of the Penn-Central Railroad owns the bridge and is currently making repairs while the span is closed to traffic.

Miller said that this bridge, even if newly reconstructed as it was in 1981, would be unable to carry present day traffic loads and can only accommodate one-way traffic. In its present condition it is such an extreme hazard that the County Highway Department closed the road and bridge to all traffic.

The abutments have fallen apart, Miller said, and the bridge has sunk 17 inches in the past three years and has shifted obliquely about one foot. A heavy truck, fire apparatus or school bus running over it might prove disastrous, Miller said.

Miller, his committee, and acting County Highway Superintendent George Fitchner inspected the bridge earlier this week with Sen. Rolison and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, R-Ulster. Miller said the loose stone and cement abutments should be removed and replaced with concrete abutments wide enough to accommodate a two-lane roadbed.

Hurt in Crash

Cherilyn Yachnowitz of Greenfield Park, was injured shortly before 8 a. m. today when her car was in collision with a parked car on Center Street in Ellenville. Police said the woman was driving east when she drove to the right to avoid an oncoming vehicle and her car hit a parked sedan owned by Abe Masor of Ellenville. The injured woman was taken to the Community Hospital by police and treated for injuries of the head and knees. The Yachnowitz 1968 car was towed from the scene.

OK Glasco Water Improvements

The $280,000 improvement project for Glasco Water District was approved at Thursday night's meeting of Saugerties Town Board, and the engineers, Brinnier and Larios were authorized to proceed with the advertising for public bidding on the project.

The work proposed will improve the flow of water from Saugerties Village water system which sells the supply to the district. The project will be financed with a 30-year bond issue. The matter was discussed at a public hearing in Glasco on June 27 where only minor objections were raised.

The project will include additional 12-inch water mains and a one million gallon steel standpipe to increase the storage capacity of the system.

The Glasco Water District serves the Glasco and Barclay Heights areas.

In connection with the project, Robert Gardner, one of the financial advisers to Supervisor A. Michael Schovel objected to the price of the Trio

Apartment property on Route 9W owned by Filomena Mauro under option to the district for right-of-way purposes and space for district storage. The site would also provide space for a polling place needed in the district. The price in the option is $23,000. Gardner objected because he said the property is on the town assessment roll for $13,500.

Councilman Bernard Rinaldi said the board considered the need of the property and had to go over the existing trailer ordinance for possible amendments.

A communication from County Legislator Paul Brazier requested that a street light be installed on Flatbush Road at pole 27. The Town Board will contact Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., to request a survey of this matter.

Councilman Rinaldi proposed a resolution commending Saugerties Jaycees for their successful July 4th observance in the village which brought national attention to Saugerties. The resolution was approved publicly congratulating and thanking the young men's group for their efforts.

Another Border Incident As Mideast War Continues

By United Press International
Gunfire crackled across the Jordanian-Israeli frontier today. Israeli spokesmen in Jerusalem said Jordanian troops opened fire across the Jordan River and Israeli forces fired back. No casualties were reported.

The incident occurred one day after President Gamal Abdel Nasser told President Tito of Yugoslavia the Arab nations would resort to force if no political solution to the Middle East crisis was forthcoming.

"The United Arab Republic can do nothing but to prepare itself to achieve the solution to the crisis by force" if Israel does not bow to Arab demands and give up occupied Arab territory, Nasser said at Tito's Brioni Island retreat. His remarks were carried by the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug.

At the same time, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad denied saying in Copenhagen last week that his nation accepted Israel as one of the Middle East realities.

In Stockholm, Sweden, Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin was expected to meet with Gunnar Jarring U.N. Middle East peace envoy, before Saturday night on possible solutions to the crisis.

your plants are loaded with seed pods. Should these be cut off? Probably your best bet is to remove the seed pods so strength can go into the roots and rest of the plant. Lupines near the base. These seedlings self-sow and plants sprout up grow into handsome specimens, with some color variation. Some gardeners divide their clumps of lupines in early spring, but I think that sowing seed in the ground any time now, will produce nice plants and when spring rolls around you can transplant them.

Lupines should be moved when small. They have a fleshy tap root and do not move easily when too large. Did you know that the scientific name comes from lupus, Latin for wolf? This alludes to an ancient belief that lupines robbed soil of fertility, which isn't true. If anything, lupines build up soils. They are a member of the pea (legume) family, taking nitrogen from the air and storing it in the roots. One more point about lupines; if you cut the old stalks or seed pods off now, they don't usually give you a second bloom the same year, as many believe.

ROOTING SNAKE PLANTS

If you'd like to start a few "snake" plants (sansevieria) from cuttings, it's simple. Cut the leaf into sections two inches long, and root them in plain sand. The variegated forms CANNOT be started this way, as they produce plants with no striping. Striped snake plants are propagated by division, the only way to make them come true. Snake plants will send forth blossoms if you treat them right. This means a rather bright window, ample moisture and occasional feeding.

GROWING PETUNIAS

If your petunias suddenly wilt and die, perhaps the trouble is due to overwatering. Heavy clay soils are poorly drained, and need the addition of humus—sawdust, peatmoss, compost, etc., to loosen them up. If your petunias are cut off at the base, blame it on cutworm. If cut off higher up, it could be the work of rabbits. Mothballs will often scare the rabbits off. Dust around the base of each plant with Sevin to keep out cutworms.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC

A reader writes "We had some seed left over from spring. How can we keep it over for another year?"

Answer: Put unused seed in a small, airtight jar and keep it in your refrigerator. Moisture is public enemy No. 1 when it comes to saving seed. Keep moisture out, not in. Temperature is also important. The cooler the better.

Pick Right Ladder for the Job

By MR. FIX

What kind of ladder you will buy, or if you even will buy one, depends a lot on just how much you plan to do around the house, the kind of house you own, even your own height and weight.

If you plan to paint your house, you will need a ladder that will put you within reach of the highest gable. If you plan to work on the roof, you will need a ladder that puts you above the eaves. If all you will need it for is checking and cleaning gutters, a shorter ladder will do.

Indoors, a step-ladder will serve every purpose. Smaller step-stools will take care of day-in, day-out reaching.

If you are tall, you can provide some of the extra reach yourself. If short, make up for it with extra length in the ladder. If you tend to be heavy, get a good, sturdy ladder.

For the one-floor, ranch-style house, a straight ladder (sometimes called a ranch ladder) should be enough if there isn't much of a roof overhang. If there is an overhang, remember that a ladder tall enough to rest against the overhang may put you too far away from the wall to reach it. You may have to settle for more than one ladder and the best way to do this is with an extension—two ladders that can extend to a great length but which you could take apart.

For the multistory house, the extension ladder is the only thing.

The combination ladder looks like a step-ladder until you notice that the rear rail has rungs. As a step-ladder, two people can work on it together, one on each side. The rear unit can be flipped up and used as an extension ladder. Or, the extension ladder, the combination ladder can be taken apart and used as separate ladders.

Once upon a time, all ladders were made of wood. Now you have a choice of wood or metal and the metal is generally aluminum, sometimes magnesium.

Wood is heavier, is subject to rot, splinters, and may crack or split. But a good wood ladder does not go all at once, as a cheap metal one might, and there is a sturdy, comfortable feel to wood.

Whether wood or metal, when you buy a ladder buy the best. It will last a lifetime and your life—literally—could depend on its quality.

The advantage with aluminum ladders is their lack of weight. If left outdoors, metal ladders are not subject to rotting.

One big warning, though, in connection with metal ladders—don't tangle with electric power lines. The combination is lethal. Of course, even on a wooden ladder you should be staying clear of power lines.

Wood ladders should be free of splinters, have smoothly rounded corners. Metal ladders should not have sharp edges or burrs. Better ladders have reinforced rungs. You may want to pay extra for flat steps, rather than round rungs.

Even with all features apparently the same, there may be differences that account for a price difference. The length may be the same, but not the width. Rails and rungs may not be as thick and wide. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Pinewood: Rural Efficiency

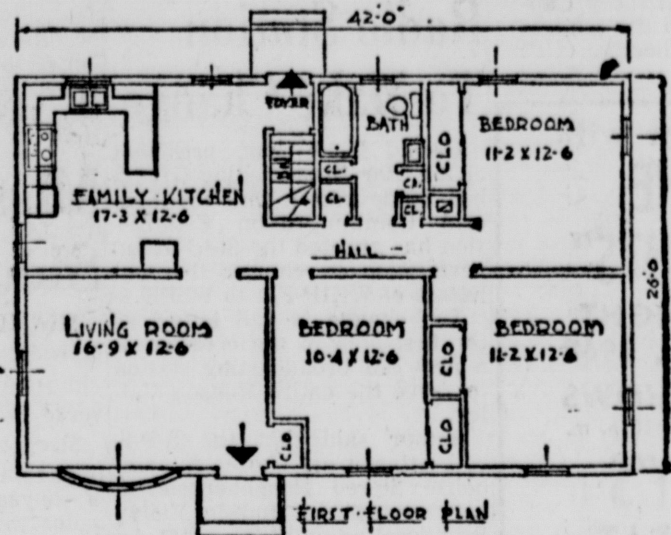

By JACK McLENEY

The use of areas that otherwise fall into the category of "dead" space can spell the difference between good and bad functional limits, particularly in the field of small home designing. Today's feature, "The Pinewood," demonstrates this application in a three bedroom economy ranch house.

For a focal point the designer settled upon a family type kitchen with a high degree of efficiency, as well as good appearance. The divided kitchen-dining area is a most useful and attractive unit of the house. All of the wardrobe closets open to the sleeping areas with modern flush sliding doors and all of the rooms are designed for the easiest possible movement. The living room occupies the choice front - of - the - house position on the left, opening the dining area, making a good traffic pattern, inasmuch as there is no intrusion on the sleeping quarters.

Complete working blueprints are available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon, and they conform to the VA and FHA building requirements.

Fussing With Furnace Now Curtails Problems in Fall

By MR. FIX

The time to worry about your furnace is during the summer. A little fuss and worry during the warm months will assure you that you will have heat when you need it during the cold months.

Checking it over now will reveal problems that can be solved while the heating plant is turned off. If you need professional service you will find that furnace maintenance outfits have more time during the summer. Remember too that an emergency call late at night during the winter when you need service immediately will cost you more in overtime labor pay.

Summer is the time to clean the furnace and smoke pipes. Soot generally contains sulphur dioxide. Combined with dampness during the summer this can cause sulphuric acid which will corrode metal. The smoke pipe from furnace to chimney is likeliest to have an accumulation of soot. Remove it if you can and clean it out with a stiff brush. Brush off interior parts of the furnace you can possibly reach. Use a brush with a long wire handle. Vacuum up dust and soot as you go along.

Inspect joints where the pipe enters the chimney. New mortar may be needed.

Open the cleanout door on the chimney and sweep out the soot. Take a look up the chimney if you can to see if there are any obstructions. Use a mirror. Reach as high as you can with your brush. Other soot will have to be removed from above. A burlap sack filled with straw and weighted with bricks can be lowered a few times in the chimney. Don't try this unless you are an experienced roof crawler.

If you have a coal furnace, inspect grates. Repair if needed. Leave fuel door and ash pit open for air circulation.

If you have access to the inside walls of the combustion chamber, clean and spray with machine oil.

Examine the exterior of metal jacket on furnace. Sand off rust spots, prime and paint.

Use a metallic paint (aluminum) for painting smoke pipes. Replace the pipe if there is any trace of holes.

In a forced air system, inspect motor, belt and pulleys. Lubricate the motor accordingly to the manufacturer's instructions. Examine the belt for proper tension and signs of wear.

Install a clean furnace filter now and you won't have to worry about it in the fall.

On a gas furnace keep the pilot going all summer. The amount of gas it uses is small and the tiny amount of heat will rid the furnace of moisture. Keep it dry. Besides, it will be ready to go on at the first drop in temperature.

If you have an oil system, fill storage tanks now. You may save on lower rates and a full tank is not likely to rust or corrode.

If your furnace has a humidifier, check and clean or replace elements which might have become coated with mineral deposits.

Keep your furnace clean and dry and it will last longer. Much of this you can do yourself. You may need professional service if some mechanical part breaks down but proper maintenance can forestall this. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

No Time Like Present For Snow Melt System

When you have to turn on the air conditioning to keep cool, snow removal is farthest from your mind. However, summer is the proper time to install an automatic snow-melting system in the sidewalk or driveway, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. If you see pipe being laid in the sidewalk somewhere, that's exactly what's going on.

In an automatic system, hot water heated by a boiler or heat exchanger is circulated through the pipe. When snow starts to fall, the system is turned on either manually or automatically, melting the snow before it has a chance to accumulate.

More and more stores, hospitals, churches and other "public" buildings are having such systems installed in sidewalks, parking lots and steps to eliminate the problem of snow removal by a more tedious process, especially in view of labor shortages and the high cost of snow removal when someone willing to take on this kind of job is available.

Automatic snow-melting is beginning to catch on with homeowners too. You and your neighbors might consider the installation of this convenience as a block undertaking.

True Scholars

DE KALB, Ill. (AP) — The humanistic attitude must be restored if this country is to continue on the "road to excellence," says Dr. Percy Julian, chemist and founder of the Julian Research Institute, Chicago. He expressed his ideas during a lecture at the Northern Illinois University campus.

He said today's educators are "the most sophisticated but the most confused society of scholars ever to inhabit the earth."

He called on the nation's educators to provide a new definition of morality and restore humanism in man's search for truth and knowledge. Unless educators can overcome the present trend toward the emphasis on development of marketable skills he noted, "it is doubtful that our educational system can develop in abundance those scholars who can hear and feel the throbbing heart of men."

Pruning Narrow Leaf Evergreens

Narrow leafed evergreens include: Junipers, Yews, Arborvitae, Hemlock, and other conifers. These bushes, shrubs and trees require pruning at one time or another to obtain a desirable shape. This pruning should consist of removing some of the new growth to maintain the desired shape and the cutting back of older branches to the point where lateral branches contain adequate foliage. New growth will soon fill in the open areas created by the cuts. Yews may be pruned more severely than other evergreens because their branches contain dormant buds on the stems which the light will cause to open and provide new foliage. Make cuts as smooth and neat as possible, close to the crotch, and avoid tearing the bark. Protect all cuts with a wound dressing.

Shade Trees Are Wilting

Why? Present wilting of shade trees in Dutchess County can be traced to four possible causes. First, injury to the trunk and bark may have resulted from winter freeze damage, rodents, insects or mechanical sources. Secondly excessive seeding of silver and other maples last year has resulted in sparse leaf development this year. Application of three lbs. of 10-10-10 fertilizer for each inch of tree trunk diameter, along with an adequate watering schedule, will help save the trees. Wilting of elms usually indicates the presence of Dutch Elm disease. Remove and burn all diseased bark and limbs as part of a complete sanitation program. Finally, wilting may result from other diseases in the plant. Verticillium wilt and anthracnose are two diseases of shade trees which require special attention.

Ants Are Easy to Control—Visual sighting of ants offers an easy guide for effective ant control. Usually, ants originate from soil outside the house, and travel into the house in search of food and nesting areas. Control is obtained by thoroughly drenching the base and foundation of the house to a height of four feet. Use of Chlordane, at three tablespoons per gallon of water, is recommended. For ants inside the house, spray moldings, baseboards, cracks in floors and walls, or anywhere else you believe ants might be. By applying a long-lasting insecticide, such as Chlordane, to surfaces frequented by ants, you can eliminate present ants as well as protecting against future infestations.

Sean Connery and BB-- A Four-Year Project

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — How does a producer go about landing Sean Connery (the No. 1 boxoffice star) to co-star with Brigitte Bardot in the same movie?

Answer: By perspiring blood. The producer in case is Euan Lloyd. The picture, "Shalako," it took Lloyd four years, drove him into debt, forced him to sell his wife's mink coat, but the Englishman persevered and finally completed his film.

He had optioned the story from author Louis L'Amour, so Lloyd had one of three elements necessary to produce a movie these days, the property. Now all he needed was money and the stars. In order to get the money he first needed the stars and a director.

Lloyd managed to interest director Edward Dmytryk early in the going. Then he set out for a star of this Western-to-be-filmed-in-spain.

"I got Sean through desperation," Lloyd recalled in a precise English accent. "I sold my wife's mink for plane fare to Hollywood to show Dmytryk a list of the top ten boxoffice stars. He picked Connery."

Connery finally approved the deal providing Lloyd came up with an all-star cast. Bardot came to Lloyd's mind. Connery approved.

Lloyd then flew to St. Tropez and talked to Brigitte who said she would not work with anyone she didn't like. Lloyd managed to get Dmytryk together with Bardot. Brigitte liked the director. So far, so good. The producer arranged a Connery-Bardot weekend meeting on neutral ground, Deauville, France. They liked each other.

Finally, "Shalako" was completed. The stars were happy, and Connery appeared satisfied. The bankers were happy. Was it all worth it? Producer Dmytryk was happy. Bardot Euan Lloyd won't know until "Shalako" is released. For the time being, at least, Mrs. Lloyd has a new mink coat.

Schedule Revised For Kennedy Book

For the second time, our new Kennedy book, "Triumph and Tragedy," has been expanded.

Originally planned to contain 190 out-size pages, it was increased last week to 224 pages to accommodate the wealth of editorial and photo material available. Now it has been expanded once more to 256 pages. There is no advance however in the special price of $3.

As a result of this, production has of necessity slowed up somewhat. Instead of coming off the presses at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., during the week of July 15, first books are now expected during the week of July 22.

They will be shipped just as fast as they become available. Editors of The Associated Press, the world's largest news gathering organization, which is producing the book for readers of this and other member newspapers, report however that the first run of 200,000 books has already been spoken for. A second run of 100,000 will be made just as soon as paper can be obtained and gotten on the presses.

Nearly 700 newspapers across the land are offering the book to their readers. And its popularity is extending far beyond the borders of the United States. There will be editions in German, French, Hindustani, Portuguese, Japanese, Dutch, Korean and Turkish, and probably in Spanish, Swedish, Italian, Norwegian, Chinese, Greek and Finnish.

"Triumph and Tragedy" is a sweeping account of the progress of the Kennedy family from famine-stricken Ireland to wealth and power—and disaster—in America. It has been produced under forced draft by a task force of 20, including some of AP's most skilled writers and editors and picture editors. More than a hundred photographs in black and white and color are included.

If you have not already done so, we suggest you reserve yours now by sending $3 for each copy desired to "Triumph and Tragedy," in care of this newspaper.

Hope for Early Return Ted Kennedy Allies Need Him Badly Now

By STEVEN GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Senate allies—who need him badly right now—are hoping the young lawmaker will return soon to Capitol Hill.

None question his right to mourn his slain brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. But they need his vote to break a logjam on gun control legislation in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Kennedy's absence, coupled with the traditional inability of liberals to muster their own forces, has hurt the forces backing strong gun control legislation.

Vain Attempt

This week, for example, Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., vainly sought committee approval of a bill requiring federal registration and licensing of firearms unless states adopted equally stringent regulations. Tydings not only could not get the bill to a vote in the committee, but he was forced to each and a tie vote defeats any amendment.

Just before the Fourth of July holiday, the committee decided to postpone action on guns legislation until this week. The vote to delay was 7-5.

Kennedy's vote alone could not have reversed the decision, but in conjunction with one or two other absentees, either Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., or George A. Smathers, D-Fla., gun control advocates, could have prevented this delay.

Not Susceptible

It also is highly doubtful that Kennedy's presence would prevent Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., from filibustering the registration and licensing within the committee. Thurmond is not susceptible to emotional appeal.

But Kennedy might have at least received total support from gun control advocates—in the form of faithful attendance. Gun control advocates may still have another chance on the Senate floor where they were

Warn Tourists To Skip Flood Areas of England

LONDON (AP)—Vacationers were warned to stay out of England's flood-stricken West Country today after angry villagers clashed with tourists they took for sightseers.

"Flood victims are in no mood for visitors," said a police spokesman in Somerset. "There is a lot of work to do. Sightseers should remember how they would feel in similar circumstances."

Ruined bridges left only one main road open to the resorts of Devon and Cornwall, on England's southwest toe. Thousands on vacation left for home early, causing some of the worst traffic jams seen in the area as they tried to make their way on secondary roads. The army lifted troops by air to make emergency repairs and help clear the destruction.

At least seven persons died in the raging waters fed by two days of torrential rain. The floods were receding in the West Country, but in the Midlands, the Trent and the Nene were rising, threatening Leicester and Northampton.

Thousands of acres were under water around Leicester. Police and troops worked to reinforce the banks of the Nene, flowing through low-lying farmland.

On the east coast, the counties of Norfolk, Essex and Kent reported heavy crop damage after winds gusting up to 60 miles an hour lashed them.

Collections Show Increase Of $164 Million

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state collected $164 million more taxes during the last three months than in a similar period last year, State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said Thursday.

The collections for April, May and June—the first three months of the fiscal year—totaled $1,142,000,000.

Personal income tax collections, the largest single source of revenue, jumped to $553 million during the three-month period this year, from $465 million in a similar period last year.

Levitt said tax collections last month totaled $465 million—$79 million more than in June 1967.

The state's two per cent sales tax produced $168 million in the first quarter this year and $150 million for the first quarter last year.

HISTORIC COVERED SPAN

County as Tourist Mecca: Great Untapped Potential

EDITOR'S NOTE: In this final article about Ulster County's many vacation possibilities, further development of playlands and tourist attractions are explored.

By JEAN F. DOLAN

With all its natural beauty and living history to attract the vacationer, Ulster County still has a great potential as a tourist mecca.

Preservers of the past and planners for the future have come up with a number of proposals to enhance the county. Restoration projects would utilize such areas as Perrine's Covered Bridge in Rifton and sections of the old Delaware and Hudson Canal in the Towns of Rochester, Wawarsing, Marbletown and Rosendale.

More Than Restoration

The Perrine's Bridge Committee has worked long and hard to save the old span before it fell into the Wallkill River. Just recently the state came through with a grant of $25,000 to be matched by the county for rescue in the nick of time. The bridge has undergone emergency temporary repairs and it is expected authentic restoration will start in the very near future.

The committee plans not only restoration of the historic old bridge but development of an adjacent picnic and parking area.

Another group actively working for preservation, restoration and development of Ulster County landmarks is the D&H Canal Historical Society.

The society has appeared before town planning boards to plead for preservation of existing locks of the old canal which was the lifeline of Ulster County during the 19th century. Proposals have incorporated park plans with the preservation efforts. Towpath nature walks, picnic and camp areas are included in the overall plan.

Ambitious Proposal

The most ambitious proposal was presented to the Ulster County Planning Board in April. Donald G. Ross, president of the canal society, outlined a county park plan incorporating the 5,000 foot portion of the canal near Allgerville which is the only section in Ulster County still water borne. He envisioned an extensive recreation complex with picnic areas, swimming pools and a golf course.

Another concern of the canal devotees is establishment of a museum to house the growing collection of canal data. The most recent donation came from Manville Wakefield, author of Coal Boats to Tidewater, who stipulated that the gift was contingent on the establishment of a museum. He will give all the Ulster County maps he created for his book on the condition that a canal society museum be in existence.

Two recreation areas are in the works for Ulster County. State parks are planned at Malden and Wittenberg. At present, the county has no state park as such. Belleayre Ski Center and Woodland Valley campsite are the existing state-operated areas.

The Hudson River played a vital role in the settlement and later commerce of Kingston and Ulster County. The great steamboats plied the river route filled with passengers headed for the "gateway to the Catskills."

Kingston Point in its heyday was a great attraction for river visitors and local residents alike.

The late Sophie Miller, long-time Freeman columnist, never ceased her fight to restore the Point to its past glories. The era of the gingerbread bandstand in the man made lagoon may have gone with the age of innocence but there are still updated possibilities for the park.

Fittingly, plans include a tree-lined entrance to the beach area in memory of Sophie Miller. Public donations are still being collected. Plantings will be made in the fall under the direction of the city beautification committee headed by Fred Johnson.

The Saugerties lighthouse, no longer used as a beacon to river traffic, has been considered as a likely site for a marine museum.

The possibilities of incorporating Kingston's historic past with present industry in a fall festival has been suggested. Apple harvest time, flaming leaves and hunks of history would make a most appealing combination.

Ulster is unique in its heritage and varied natural beauty. Stone houses in constant everyday use since early days rival restorations such as Williamsburg and Sturbridge.

The marine traditions of the river port which shipped blue-stone, cement and coal to the major cities of the eastern seaboard can at least compete with Mystic by the Sea.

Inflammatory Remark

RICHMOND, England (UPI)—A British court convicted Peter Polish, 19, of using insulting words likely to cause a breach of the peace for shouting "Robert Kennedy deserved to die. I have no sympathy for him or his family. He was shot as all politicians should be."

Neighboring Monroe has created a museum village which is visited by school children from Ulster County. Surely Ulster's heritage could produce a like attraction closer to home.

The Junior League of Kingston has completed an extensive survey of all buildings in the county built before 1850. The legends and history as well as architectural features of the structures were duly recorded. This material should prove invaluable in many ways as a basis for future development, as a guide to local history and as a saver of the past.

What happens now depends on the concern and foresight of today's residents in this unique patch on the map.

River Debris Study

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is conducting a three-year study on the alleviation of debris along the Hudson River shoreline including old abandoned barges, wharfs and other driftwood.

Esopus Supervisor George H. Freer and Robert Courtney, boatsman, attended the June 18 public hearing of the Corps of Engineers in Poughkeepsie. The Town of Esopus shoreline along Rondout Creek and the Hudson is dotted with old barges and other abandoned debris and has been a source of irritation and a hazard to marine navigation for some time.

Former Esopus Supervisor Roger W. Mabie, who is now county legislator for the 7th District including Esopus has been agitating for some form of action on this matter for quite some time.

At the hearing a representative of the New York City Botanical Gardens told of the animal life in the river such as worms and wood-eating insects which are becoming more abundant as river pollution wanes. He said this eating away of debris will cause much of this material to breakup and move into river channels and this will in the very near future create hazards to marine navigation in the area.

Other area representatives cited the hazards in their particular areas indicating the need for early action in the proposed project to clear up river debris.

Ulster's First CPS Secretary

Mrs. Elsie B. Secor, secretary to George D. Craigmile, Controller at the local IBM Engineering Laboratory, has been notified by the Institute for Certifying Secretaries that she has merited the rating of CPS—Certified Professional Secretary. This designation is only attained by experienced secretaries who have successfully completed all six parts of an examination administered by the Institute for Certifying Secretaries, a department of the National Secretaries Association (International). Candidates must meet definite educational and experience requirements and pass all sections of the examination. The examination is based upon an analysis of secretarial work, with emphasis on judgment, understanding and administrative ability gained through experience. The examination contents includes the testing of skills, techniques and knowledge in the following areas: Personal Adjustments and Human Relations, Business Law, Business Administration, Secretarial Accounting, Secretarial Skills, and Secretarial Procedures.

MRS. ELSIE B. SECOR

Mrs. Secor is the first area secretary to attain this CPS rating.

Mrs. Secor is a life-long resident of Ulster County, residing with her husband and two sons in Ashokan, N. Y. She is a graduate of Kingston High School and has attended classes at Ulster County Community College. In addition, she has participated in the Voluntary Education classes at the local IBM facility and the workshops and seminars sponsored by the local chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

Prior to her present employment, Mrs. Secor was secretary to N. Jansen Fowler, attorney. Subsequently, she was employed as secretary to the Division Manager of Cities Service Oil Company when it was located in Kingston; secretary to the business manager of Canfield Supply Company; and as secretary to the Production Control and Traffic manager of Rotron Manufacturing Co., Inc. at Woodstock.

Mrs. Secor is a member of the Colonial Valley Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International), joining the local unit in 1962. She has served as program chairman, Secretaries Week chairman, corresponding secretary and president. In addition to her NSA membership, Mrs. Secor is an active member of Olive Rebekah Lodge 470, IOOF; Olive Fire Department No. 1 Ladies Auxiliary; the Overlook Methodist Church, for which she serves as secretary; and a member of the senior choir of the Overlook Methodist Church in Woodstock.

The CPS designation is a mark of distinction among secretaries. Presentation of the CPS certificate will be made formally to Mrs. Secor at the fall meeting of the local Colonial Valley Chapter of The National Secretaries Association (International).

Nineteen children have been benefiting this year from the services of the Day Training Center for Retarded Children, located on Lindsley Avenue in the former School No. 4 building, Kingston.

Classes are held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. and children range in age from two to 13 years.

The aim of the school is to teach and train each child to his fullest potential. There are volunteers, a certified teacher, certified speech and hearing therapist and three teacher aides in attendance.

Transportation is provided by the Association whenever possible.

Objectives are to provide organized developmental experiences for mentally retarded children in this county who are living at home and are not able or eligible for participation in existing programs. The Association is trying to facilitate home care by developing independence in personal needs, to aid parents to adapt to the stress of a retardate in the family, and to provide means of aiding the family unit to accept the problem.

The Center is under the direction of Mrs. John Schick, teacher; Mrs. Ruth Pidone, assistant; Mrs. Alice Heilman, speech therapist; and Mrs. Donna Mazzola, Mrs. Elsie Kent, teachers' aides.

Requirements for mentally retarded children to enter the program are nominal. The child need not be bathroom trained or be able to talk.

Commitment, the Prime Requirement For Women Who Marry Ministers

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Commitment. This one word sums up the prime requirement for the woman who marries a minister.

Commitment to God, to family, to people. It is a difficult assignment, says one woman married to a clergyman for 35 years, but if you don't have commitment "you might as well go marry a broker."

The words are those of Alice Taylor, wife of the Rt. Rev. George A. Taylor, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Easton, Md. Mrs. Taylor is author of a wise and witty guide to women who marry clergymen. It also should help the congregation, the others in the community in understanding that a minister's wife is human too.

A minister's wife must "set an example for the congregation," Mrs. Taylor says. "So much is expected of her—the health of an Amazon and the dedication of a Florence Nightingale, the patience of Job and the zeal of a Carrie Nation, the peace-loving thoughts of a Gandhi and the fighting spirit of a warrior, the charm of a debutante and the intelligence of a Phi Beta Kappa."

A minister's wife lives in a goldfish bowl, Mrs. Taylor adds, "well aware that it is her sole responsibility to see that the goldfish behave."

"The congregation expects a lot of the minister's wife, whether they admit it or not. If she's too pretty, she's trying to act like a model. If she's dowdy, they don't invite her places."

"She's expected to lead, but if she takes on too much, it deprives others, so she has to encourage leadership elsewhere."

"She has to have the skin of an elephant, because people will hurt her sometimes. And they'll hurt her husband, which multiplies hers."

Mrs. Taylor writes candidly of the role of a clergyman's wife in "How to Be a Minister's Wife and Love It" (Zondervan Publishing House, Grand Rapids, Mich.). And she expressed many of the above thoughts in a telephone interview from her home in Easton, on Maryland's eastern shore. Her husband's diocese embraces "30 clergymen—28 wives and two bachelors," she said.

The book is her first. "I wrote it from compulsion," said Mrs. Taylor. "In recent years, I've had some time to think . . . and to think of all those ministers' wives who don't know what they're getting into."

"I've seen clergymen ruined when a wife didn't undertake her role with commitment, patience, tact . . ."

"I know one whose wife hasn't been in church in four years. Now you know what his congregation says. 'If he can't sell her on religion, how can he sell us?'"

Mrs. Taylor was born in Albany, N.Y., and met her husband when he was assigned to the Ministry St. Paul's Church there. He served as rector at St. David's Church in Baltimore and at St. Paul's, outside Chestertown, Md., before being elected bishop of the Easton Diocese in 1965. The couple has two sons and two grandchildren.

FLEA MARKET ON SHAKER MUSEUM GROUNDS

Mid-Summer Museum Festival

Area women who enjoy browsing through collectors' items will be interested to know that the 13th annual Shaker Museum Festival will be held on the Museum grounds in Old Chatham on Saturday, Aug. 3. Russell Carrell will again manage the Flea Market which is becoming an integral part of the traditional summer event. Carrell is the acknowledged originator of the "Flea Market" in America and while this is the only one organized in this area by Carrell he arranges these popular sales as far away as Michigan and Illinois. There will be some 100 select dealers participating and Carrell states that due to the popularity of this show he receives unsolicited requests for space months in advance. This Festival is so widely known that dealers from a vast area are to be included. There are dealers from Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and, of course, New York. There will be a vast selection of items from which the collector of long standing or the neophyte may browse and find something that is irresistible. Prices are within everyone's means as there are items to be found for 50 cents as well as those costing hundreds of dollars, so the "small fry" may find a gift for Mom as can Dad find a real treasure for "The Little Woman." As always, there will be a number of rare Shaker items, hand-made early tools, many of which are no longer used but are collected for the fine workmanship they represent, also antique jewelry which thrills the ladies as they visualize the ladies of long ago who wore the beautiful cameo, garnets and other exquisite pieces that will be available. The velvet soft glow of pewter that is so admired today and collected by the connoisseur may be found as well as elaborate silver pieces. A wide selection of bottles will be included by some dealers who make a specialty of this. For the knowledgeable, or those who wish to become so, there will be reference books on all phases of antique collecting and antiques. In addition to the "Flea Market," Eric Sloane, nationally known author-artist will have a one-man show of his beautiful paintings and the Shaker Village Work Groups will demonstrate various crafts on authentic Shaker equipment in the Museum. There will be a snack bar on the premises where light refreshments are available and there is ample free parking space.

CONTRASTING NORMAN NORELL'S last collection — when skirt lengths crept closer to the floor — are the hemlines in his latest presentation for fall previewed in New York on July 8. Typical of his coat silhouette is this number with a large puritan collar, double breasted closing, buttons marching up the sleeves almost to the elbows, and hems above the knee. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

THE SEDATE PACE of Norman Norell's latest collection was jolted when a group of long black wool and silk crepe evening dresses showed up with exposure spots. One had triangular cut outs from the waist to just about as brave as a designer can get. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Guitar Lessons

Happy Traum, the well-known guitarist and folksinger, will once again be giving classes at The Young People's Studio in Woodstock. The summer schedule will include a new beginner's group, an evening class for adults, and a special workshop in blues and fingerpicking techniques for those with a basic knowledge of the guitar.

The beginner's class will be taught the rudiments of song accompaniment drawing from a folk and contemporary pop song repertoire. Students will learn the basic chords and strums, as well as some ear training and theory.

The blues and fingerpicking workshop will discuss and teach the guitar styles of such artists as Brownie McGhee, Mississippi John Hurt, Lightning Hopkins, and Elizabeth Cotten, and will work from some of the selections in Traum's book, Fingerpicking Styles for Guitar. The techniques learned will also be applied to the more popular folk guitar styles of Joan Baez, Tom Paxton, Judy Collins, Phil Ochs and others.

The instructor, Happy Traum, has been a performer and teacher for more than 10 years, and is well known on both the rock and folk scene. He is the author of several books on the guitar, and is currently the editor of Sing Out! the National Folk Song Magazine.

Heat, But Don't Cook

Frankfurters and other smoked sausage links are already cooked. They may be heated but are better if not cooked.

To do this, drop the hot dogs or smoked sausages in boiling water. Cover and let simmer. Simmering temperature is quite a bit below boiling. It's water bubbling around the edges of the pan, just below the surface. Usually it takes five to ten minutes to heat hot dogs or sausages. Range is given because so much depends upon the size.

Phantom Fling Takes to MR in a Hurry

MONTICELLO—It didn't take length of time for Phantom Fling to get going away. The bay horse, five years old and the son of Newport Dream, went outside coming down for the half, which went in 1:04.4, but didn't pass Dede and driver Bob Camper until a step before the three-fourths. The time there was 1:35.3.

Without having to use the whip on the 8-5 favorite, Bradbury let him have his head and the Fling pulled away by three coming home. A trio of fast closers, Beau Brummel (5), Faber Mar Mic (7) and Ronnie Star (4) all passed the fading Dede Hanover.

Homers Win for Ted's, Michael's In Saugerties

Mickey Iannone drove in six runs with a pair of home runs and a double to lead Michael's Barber Shop to a 13-4 romp over winless Paul's Shell in the Yankee Division. Don O'Connor blasted a three-run homer in the sixth to give Ted's Esso, the Met leader, an 11-1, rule-halted, five-and-a-half innings victory over McConekey's Funeral Home. Both games were in the Saugerties Softball League.

Iannone belted a three-run job in the third, followed it with a solo homer in the fifth and then poked a two-run double in the sixth, completing a perfect 3-for-3 night.

O'Connor, whose circuit blast sparked a five-run sixth inning rally, now heads the Met home run derby with three round-trippers.

The triumph put Michael's (5-2) a game out of first while Ted's (9-2) increased its lead to one in the other division.

Ted's raked loser Ed Pelham for 10 hits, eight of them singles, plus 13 walks.

Dear Abby

Truth Still Best Policy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When I married Lou I knocked five years off my true age because he was a couple of years younger than I was. We have been married 28 years and have married children now, and Lou still doesn't know my real age.

My husband and I are planning our first trip abroad this summer, and in order to get passports I sent away for our birth certificates — mine to be sent to a post office number which I got especially for this purpose. My husband frequently sees the mail before I do, and he would be flabbergasted if he opened the mail and saw the date on my birth certificate.

I suppose I am acting childish about this, but Lou is the kind of person who would rib me the rest of my life if he found out.

Is there some way I can doctor up my birth certificate or the passport so my husband won't find out how old I am?

I have heard that it can be done. What is your advice?
OLDER THAN HE: Don't "doctor" up anything. Be nonchalant and maybe Lou won't even notice the year of birth on your passport. Or tell him in advance. If he ribs you, he ribs you. Women have been getting the rib ever since Eve.

DEAR ABBY: I have just discovered that my husband has a new girl friend. He doesn't know I know about this one. We had a terrible scene over the last one, and he promised if I forgave him it would never happen again. (If I had $100 for everytime he said this, I'd be rich.)

In the past I've always let him know that I knew about his extra-marital affairs, but this time I'm not going to say one word about it. I am completely drained of energy and emotion and I don't want to "talk it over" with him. I am sick of his lies and promises. I just want to be left alone. I've lost all confidence and faith in him and any "love" I once had for him is dead. Naturally, I certainly don't want to sleep with him any more.

He knows I've cooled off, but he doesn't know why. I offered him his freedom in the past. He doesn't want it. (He says he "loves" me. Ha!) He provides very well for the children and me, but I have had it. What would you do?

IN A QUANDARY: I'd give him two choices. See a marriage counselor or see a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: When I was young I had an illegitimate baby. I gave him up for adoption on the advice of those who cared for me. I later married a man who knows all about my past. We now have a 16-year-old daughter. Should I tell my daughter about my illegitimate son as an example of what a foolish girl can do when she yields to temptation and doesn't heed the warning of her mother? My daughter is a quiet girl who doesn't have a boy friend yet, but I am so worried about what might happen to her when she starts going out with boys. Should I confess my sin to her or not?

SINNED: "Warn" your daughter without using your personal experience as the horrible example.

Can it be that you still feel guilty and have an unconscious desire to punish yourself for your "sin"? If I were you, Mother, I would skip the confession.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HATE TO WRITE LETTERS? SEND $1 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069, FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Think and Bid Like Expert

By Oswald and James Jacoby and you like it even less when North bids four spades.

Your first thought is to double. Your second is that it would be far better to double five spades. Maybe you can bring home five hearts anyway. Even if you can't, isn't it likely that a five bid will push South to five spades?

So your second thought is to bid five hearts. However, if you really are an expert you will have a third thought which is that maybe a club lead will be more effective against spades than hearts.

Now you have finished thinking like an expert and you proceed to bid five clubs just as an expert would.

Your partner will take you back to hearts if South passes but South bids five spades. It comes around to you and you double. Your partner leads a club and you manage to beat five spades exactly one trick but you should be mighty happy about the whole thing. If you hadn't bid clubs and your partner had opened a romped home with his five spades.

Of course, you won't always be right. Bridge experts make mistakes and some of them are humongous.

Now for a little expert thinking with the East hand. Your heart bid is quite sound and you are delighted when your partner takes you right to game. You expect you will make your contract easily. You aren't worried about South's one spade overcall but you don't like the way North is thinking.

The Communications' Reply

By RICK DU BROW
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Representatives of the communications field appeared Thursday night in an ABC-TV hour, "Bias and the Mass Media" — Part II, "responding to views of Negroes on a previous program. It was the second broadcast of the network's six-part series, "Time for Americans," about the race issue.

On the first broadcast, two weeks ago, the all-Negro panel consisted of entertainers Harry Belafonte and Lena Horne; poet-critic-essayist Larence Neal and Dr. Alvin Poussaint, assistant psychiatry professor at Tufts University Medical School. And that hour was billed by ABC-TV as "an indictment of racism as it exists in the media in America — radio and television, advertising, newspapers and magazines."

Thursday night's panel consisted of Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review; Herbert Kamm, editorial consultant of the Scripps Howard newspapers; Elmer Lower, president of ABC News; Edward P. Morgan, chief correspondent of the Public Broadcast Laboratory; Dan Seymour, president of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency; and James C. Hagerty, ABC vice president in charge of corporate relations.

No Continuation Scheduled
 Forget, for a moment, the specific content and particular quality of the two broadcasts to date. What is really important is that they have been done, and in prime time, and are a sort of beginning. And how much more reassuring the whole project would seem if only such a meaty series were on the television schedule when the main season starts in September. At present, not a single commercial network has a weekly prime time series along these lines on the fall schedule.

What defied explanation on the Thursday hour, was the fact that not a single representative was on hand from the two visual communications areas — television and movie entertainment. The incredible result was that this overall field escaped with barely a mention. And despite Mr. Seymour's presence, advertising got off easily too.

A consequence of all this, an of the composition of the panel, was that the news media — certainly the most responsible, constructive and well-intentioned area of communications — found themselves the central subject most of the time. Of course the news media are not perfect; and surely there is a need for such discussion, constantly. But the idea of letting some truly crass, offending areas of communications get off scot free of self-criticism was appalling and dismaying.

note Contradiction
 Particularly sharp, after Mr. Seymour's comments about how the advertising situation was improving, was Mr. Kamm's observation that the first broadcast of this very series went unsponsored. And concerning tokenism, Mr. Cousins was delightfully deadly in noting how an executive, seeking a Negro secretary, will look for a combination of Lena Horne and Marian Anderson — and, failing to get that, will hire a white girl, comforting himself with the thought that at least he tried.

There was agreement by all of the panel that more black workers should be trained, employed and given responsibility in the various media. Along these lines, moderator Frank Reynolds was effective in posing the black viewpoint that Negroes do not merely want to be fitted into the white structure, but wish to have positions of authority right away in order to put forth their own outlook on equal terms.

The third broadcast of the series, "Newark: Anatomy of a Riot," will be presented on ABC-TV Sunday at 4 p.m. EDT.

Life is incidental in the scheme of evolution — there is nothing to indicate any importance for it.

An argument between a husband and wife had reached its height.

Mrs. Smith — I wish I'd taken your mother's advice and never married you.

Her husband asked slowly: Mr. Smith — Do you mean to say that your mother tried to stop your marrying me?

She nodded.

Mr. Smith (whispered) — Good heavens, how I've wronged that woman!

Artemus Ward used to do a lot of talking to audiences. Sometimes he would stop in the middle of a lecture and say:

Mr. Ward — Owing to a slight indisposition I am now going to declare a brief intermission.

And then he would add:

Mr. Ward — But to pass the time away I shall continue to talk.

The ten-year-old came home from his fifth-grade class with a test paper on which appeared this notation in red, underlined letters: "I cannot read this writing!" (Grade F)

He looked at the comment and the grade with some bitterness.

Freddy — Well, I'll say this much for last year's teacher. At least she always tried.

There's one good thing about people who ignore you — they don't give you any bad advice.

A wealthy Detroit, returning from his grand tour abroad, was asked by an artistic friend whether he had managed to pick up a Van Gogh or Picasso abroad.

Mr. Jackson (the traveler) — Naw. They're all left-hand drive, and I got three Buicks anyway.

Bill — The doctor said he'd have me on my feet in a fortnight.

Phil — And did he?

Bill — Sure, I've had to sell my automobile.

I'll bite the other three sides!

Biafra Mercy Mission

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The chief of a British mercy mission sought a meeting today with Nigerian government chief Yakubu Gowon as he tried to arrange delivery of more relief supplies to millions of starving war refugees in secessionist Biafra.

Lord Hunt was rebuffed by a Nigerian army commander Thursday when he asked that Port Harcourt, the closest port to the Biafran area, be designated a forwarding point for tons of food piling up outside the war-torn country.

He reported that Col. Benjamin Adekunle, commanding the federal government's forces along the eastern coast reserved the port facilities for military needs. Lord Hunt said the colonel was a single-minded soldier who puts winning the war ahead of the refugee problem.

Adekunle told newsmen he did not favor foreigners entering war areas and "disturbing" the fighting. He was reported angered by Lord Hunt's visit.

Lord Hunt also visited the town of Ikot Ekpene, in a refugee-choked area 50 miles north-east of Port Harcourt. As he was leaving, the town was attacked by rebel Biafran troops, but they were driven back by Nigerian federal forces.

An estimated 4.5 million refugees are crammed into the 10,000 square miles still held by the Biafran government in eastern Nigeria. The Lagos government, which has the territory under blockade, has offered to let relief convoys through a road corridor controlled by federal forces, but the Biafrans refuse to accept this because of the political implications of such Lagos control and because they fear Lagos will poison the food.

HHH: East-West Reconciliation, Urges Backing of Talks in Paris

By United Press International. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey issued a policy statement on international relations today which called for "reconciliation" of East and West, but for the most part skirted the Vietnam issue.

In a brief reference to the war, the Democratic presidential contender reiterated his desire for a political settlement and said at this point the best hope for achieving this is the Paris talks.

Political Settlement
"I want to end that war," Humphrey said. "I want to end it the only way it can be ended — by a political settlement."

"I want a political settlement which will permit the people of South Vietnam — all the people of South Vietnam — to shape their own future. And I want to see a cease-fire at the earliest possible moment."

He added that right now "the most effective peace effort we can make is to back our negotiating team in Paris."

Humphrey, who has been under pressure to declare his current attitude toward President Johnson's commitment in Vietnam, said last weekend he was withholding comment on the war because of the Paris talks.

The Vice President took pains while suggesting new directions for U. S. foreign policy to avoid leaving the implication there was something to be desired in its past handling.

He said the cold war is waning. Communist countries no longer pose a monolithic threat, and Western Europe and Japan can now "stand on their own two feet" — "successes," he said, that "demand a shift from policies of confrontation and containment to policies of reconciliation and peaceful engagement."

Humphrey, forced by a stubborn case of flu to forego West Coast presidential campaign appearances, issued the position paper in Washington. He billed it as a "major statement."

Eugene J. McCarthy — The Minnesota Democrat took the Johnson administration to task for what he said was "failure to make use of federal funds or federal power" to help feed hungry Americans. He said the food stamp and surplus commodity distribution programs "have clearly failed to allay hunger."

Ronald Reagan — Dismissing as "a total fabrication" a published report that he will announce his candidacy for the GOP presidential nomination July 21, the California governor told reporters. "I have not changed my position." He is the favorite son candidate of his state's Republicans, but has indicated he will consider himself a genuine candidate once his name is in nomination.

Nelson A. Rockefeller — The New York governor drew 10,000 spectators in a cheering ticker tape parade down Wall Street. He told the throng, when he could make himself heard, that "I have come to Wall Street to offer the Republican party a choice . . . the people are tired of the old politics. They want a new leadership that is unafraid of change."

George C. Wallace — The former Alabama governor's third party organization filed petitions in Minnesota to get his candidacy on the November presidential ballot.

The amount of the defamation judgment to Esther James went up and down drastically over the years as more than a dozen state judges issued opinions on Powell's conduct in the case. Some time ago, Powell cleared himself of a civil complaint conviction by paying more than $56,000 to Mrs. James. Thursday's court decision did not specify at what point contempt of court in a civil case becomes serious enough to be considered criminal contempt.

The criminal contempt citation was made before the House of Representatives barred Powell from taking his seat at the start of the 90th Congress in 1967.

Powell Conviction Upheld, No Decision on Another Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1966 conviction of former Rep. Adam Clayton Powell on a charge of criminal contempt of court, which led to a 30-day jail sentence and a $500 fine, has been upheld by a three-to-two vote of the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court.

The ousted congressman's lawyer, Henry R. Williams, said after the ruling Thursday that no decision had been made yet on whether to take the case to the Court of Appeals, New York State's highest tribunal.

The 59-year-old Powell, who has been elected as a Democratic congressman from Harlem for more than 20 years, was reported to be on Bimini, his favorite island retreat in the Bahamas.

Thursday's ruling came after eight years of litigation over Powell's failure to pay a defamation judgment won by a 71-year-old Harlem widow who Powell called a "bag woman" — collector of graft for policemen — on a 1960 television program. It apparently made Powell subject to arrest if he came into New York State without making a further appeal and obtaining a parole from a judge of the Court of Appeals.

A Tax on the Vatican?

By EDWARD MAGRI

ROME (AP) — Caretaker Premier Giovanni Leone, trying to rebuild a majority center-left coalition by fall, is seeking Socialist support with a promise to make the Vatican pay taxes on the dividends it collects in Italy.

The promise helped his Christian Democratic minority government win a vote of confidence Thursday night in the Chamber of Deputies. The vote was 263-252, with 88 abstentions by Socialists and Republicans who could have turned the government out by voting no.

Leone's government is expected to complete its mandate to govern until fall by winning another vote of confidence in the Senate next week.

Taxing the Vatican is something no other Italian government ever dared mention. Leone's proposal would require the Vatican to pay the 30 per cent dividend tax every other Italian investor pays. This would in arrears date back to 1963, when the tax took effect.

The premier's problem is to put through enough reform legislation to satisfy the Socialists before their party congress this fall, when they will decide whether to rejoin the Christian Democrats to form a majority government. There is no other feasible way to form a majority in the Chamber of Deputies. The Socialists quit the center-left coalition after the May 19 election, blaming their election losses on failure of the dominant Christian Democrats to accomplish enough reforms to keep leftist voters from swinging to the Communists.

On the other hand, Leone's plans for reform face a stiff fight from the right wing of his own party. He hopes to mollify this faction by not pressing for other Socialist programs, like a divorce law.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano accused Leone of lacking good manners

By THOMAS POWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police in 13 states today, sought Bobby Rogers, a Bronx tenement janitor suspected of the sidewalk slaying of three men, but authorities said they believed he was holed up somewhere in New York City still armed with a sawed-off carbine.

What at first appeared to be a senseless massacre by a berserk gunman may have been the outcome of a quarrel between the suspect and at least two of the slain men, a police officer said. The gunman, known to tenants as a "quiet, affable" man, moved down his victims and wounded a fourth in a barrage of 18 shots Thursday night.

Police records today showed that Rogers had been arrested here twice, in 1963 for felonious assault and two years ago for grand larceny. The assault charge later was dismissed. The 1966 charge was reduced to petty larceny and was marked "no disposition."

Circumstances of the arrests were not disclosed in police records.

Early today a dozen friends of one of the slain men, Manuel Angel Figueroa, 19, sat cross-legged on the scene on a south Bronx street and mourned around a makeshift altar at the spot where Figueroa fell. The altar was a rosary-draped parking meter to which a wooden cross and plastic statue of Jesus was attached.

The friends kept lighted a score of commemorative candles as neighbors came to watch and pray and toss coins into a garbage can lid to help pay for Figueroa's funeral.

Figueroa and two other Puerto Rican men were slain Thursday night on East 138th St. in the slum that is South Bronx. A man sprayed bullets from a 30 caliber automatic carbine. A fourth man was wounded slightly.

Somewhere in the ghetto, police said, a killer hid. Perhaps it was blocks, perhaps only yards from where Manuel Angel Figueroa's friends erected their cathedral - in - the - slum.

Police said the gunman appeared suddenly in early evening and began sweeping the snubbed carbine barrel, left - to - right, right - to - left, across the street. Three men fell, mortally wounded. A fourth was nicked. Passersby dived for cover and patrons and businessmen fell to the floor of stores lining the street. Police found 18 spent cartridges.

Authorities issued a 13-state alarm for Bobby Rogers, 31, a light-skinned Negro who was superintendent of a shabby, yellowed brick tenement at 678 E. 138th St. in front of which the shooting occurred. They said witnesses identified Rogers as the gunman. One policeman said that although the search was over a wide area, officials believed Rogers probably was hiding in the neighborhood.

The suspect had a thorough knowledge of the five - story tenement and its connections to other shabby buildings in the area. He simply disappeared into the building after the shootings.

Hundreds of police swarmed into the area. Under cover of automatic weapons, police wearing steel flak vests and head protectors and carrying tear gas guns searched the tenement, with no success. The basement of the building connects with at least two other identical adjacent tenements, police said.

It was not certain whether the victims were killed by design or by accident. Friends and relatives of the dead men - Figueroa, 19, Efraim Castro and Jose Rivera, both in their early 20s - indicated they were strangers and did not know the alleged gunman.

But an assistant district attorney for the Bronx, Burton Roberts, said there was "some evidence that they all knew each other." He declined to say more.

Turn Thumbs Down on County Tax Plan

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

The county-wide sales tax suffered an ominous setback Thursday night in what appeared to be a 23 to 9 test vote of the County Legislature on the need for additional revenue.

Seven city legislators, Minority Leader Roger W. Mabie, D-7th District, and Frank Muller, R-10th District voted for the measure calling for preparation of a proposed local law by the September meeting and the 2 per cent levy becoming effective Jan. 1, if adopted. The resolution was jointly introduced by city legislators John C. Sangaline, Melvin Mones, Wendell Scherer and Sam Perry, all Republicans.

Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye, R-2nd District prefaced his no vote by urging economies in county government instead of adding more taxes. He alluded to town assessors as holding the key to a broader tax base.

Terms Measure Premature

Ernest J. Gardner, R-11th District pointed out that the county was still in the process of studying the 1969 budget and at this time it was not possible to determine if additional revenues are needed. He termed the measure premature and cast a negative vote.

Joseph Martorana, R-9th District also termed the proposal premature. He said that before the measure comes to a vote it should be determined how the receipts of the tax would be allocated.

In defense of the proposal, Minority Leader Mabie said the body should look at the "big picture" and cited the population projection for the county. He said the population had increased by 50 per cent and the county now has to provide more services which indicated the need for additional revenues.

Melvin Mones, R-Kingston, defended the resolution and suggested the legislators take this initial step to be prepared if the revenues are needed when the 1969 budget is presented. He said the local law could be prepared for presentation by the September meeting and by that time the budget picture would be clear. Mones pointed out that this was not a vote on the actual sales tax but just a vote to prepare the local law and set the stage for a public hearing on the proposed levy.

City of Kingston officials have for some time been agitating for enactment of a county-wide sales tax to relieve Kingston businessmen who are doing business with the 2 per cent city sales tax handicap. The city tax has been effective since March.

Two Saugerties Democrats, Richard Thornton and Paul Brazier voted against the measure with the 21 Republicans.

The six-point state highway improvement study proposed by Legislator Martorana suffered a sharp defeat with only Martorana voting for the resolution. It was suggested by Minority Leader Mabie that the study be directed to the County Planning Board.

Another $133,817.19 check for the city as its share of the two per cent sales tax. Mayor Garaghan announced receipt of this today coupled with a statement "what do you expect" over the failure of the County Legislature to enact the county levy. Story on Page 3.

The legislators approved the setting of July 25 at 7:30 p. m. in the legislator's chambers for a public hearing on Ulster County Community College's $1,673,543 budget for 1969. The vote was unanimous.

Copies of the budget distributed by Dr. George B. Erbstein, college president and Robert Brown, dean of administration, noted an increase in the county's share of operating budget of $124,692 over last year's figure of $331,530.

The operating cost for the county will be $456,222 plus $32,500 for equipment. The total amount for equipment is $65,000, with half of the cost provided by state aid.

The budget report noted the $124,692 increase represents 26 per cent of the total increase while the anticipated increase in full-time enrollment for fall semester is 36 per cent.

Estimated revenues will total $1,194,321 which includes an appropriated surplus of $23,000; student revenue $541,970 and the same amount from state aid. Both figures indicate an increase over last year of 39.7 per cent. This compares with the 39.4 per cent increase of the total budget.

The new $4.2 million county infirmity came closer to reality with the appointment of Albert E. Milliken, local architect to prepare plans for the structure. The plans are needed to apply for federal Hill-Burton funds.

Under the proposal the county would pay one-third of the cost and the state and federal government would make up the other two-thirds. Majority Leader Dye, author of the resolution, explained the procedure. Adoption of the measure authorizes Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago to enter into contract with Milliken for architectural services.

The legislators approved the establishment of a County Recreation and Parks Commission on a measure introduced by Mones and Lester C. Elmenador, R-2nd District. The measure calls for the appointment by Chairman Savago of five members, and $500 for initial expenses was appropriated from the contingency fund.

Award Bridge Contract

The bid of James Berardi, Inc., Kingston, of $133,291.40 was approved and a contract awarded for the construction of County Bridge 192, Beech Hill Bridge in the Town of Hardenbergh which spans the Beaverkill. The old iron and wooden plank span would be demolished and a steel beam highway bridge erected near the site.

Frank L. Miller, R-2nd District, chairman of the Bridge and Highway Committee offered the proposal.

Appraisal of county-owned buildings was approved. Industrial Appraisal Company was awarded the $14,400 contract to do the work.

A measure proposed by Minority Leader Mabie to increase the penalty for littering to $250 was referred to the Legal Committee. Majority Leader Dye suggested that if approved this measure superceded the state law which invokes a $50 fine and recommended referral.

Legislator William West's proposal for a study on regulating billboards was referred to the County Planning Board for further study. The Woodstock Republican, in the resolution, asked all candidates to eliminate the use of billboards and posters because they "despoil and detract" from the natural beauty of the area.

ESCAPES BOMB—Police removed a live grenade rigged as a bomb in the car of Nassau County Executive Eugene H. Nickerson yesterday. The grenade was detonated safely in a burst of shrapnel on the grounds of Nickerson's Long Island home at Roslyn Harbor. Nickerson, a political ally of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was defeated last month in a bid for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate. Police were led to the scene by an anonymous telephone call. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Saigon Suicide Attacks Imminent, Extra Guards Posted at Key Spots

SAIGON (AP) — A terrorist shot and seriously wounded a U.S. soldier in downtown Saigon today amid reports that Viet Cong suicide commandos are expected to raid the South Vietnamese capital at any time.

Extra guards were posted at the U.S. Embassy and other key installations, and police were put on 100 per cent alert. The raids, if they come, likely would open the third Viet Cong offensive of the year against Saigon, an attack that has been expected for weeks.

Assailant Escapes

The terrorist's victim was shot three times less than a mile from the presidential palace and taken to an Army hospital. His assailant escaped.

The assassination attempt was the first against an American reported in Saigon since the Viet Cong's second offensive against the capital in May.

U.S. sources said they had no confirmation of the South Vietnamese intelligence reports warning of commando raids. But American troops "are in a complete state of readiness to meet any enemy attacks" and have been for months, a spokesman said.

But Vietnamese police sources said guards were increased at the U.S. Embassy, where a Viet Cong suicide squad struck Jan. 30 at the beginning of the Tet offensive and held out for several hours in the embassy grounds. More government troops also were sent to bridges leading into the city and various checkpoints on Saigon's outskirts.

Reports of Attacks

High-ranking Vietnamese officials said they had received reports the American Embassy would be attacked again and the national police headquarters would be another target.

An unconfirmed report said the Viet Cong had stolen an official U.S. car, apparently to fill it with explosives and use it to attack an American installation. U.S. Embassy security men armed with machine guns were seen at the Rex, one of the major U.S. officers' billets, checking American cars for explosives.

One South Vietnamese source said the Viet Cong "have to make a noise" before July 20: the 14th anniversary of the Geneva agreements which divided Vietnam.

"They have been losing so much they have to boost the morale of their troops," the source added.

11,000 of Foe Near

Intelligence sources say about 11,000 enemy troops are within quick striking distance of the capital, and more are reported on the way.

U.S. 9th Division infantrymen sweeping around Saigon flushed out an enemy platoon 18 miles southwest of the city Thursday and reported killing 10 Viet Cong soldiers in a brief fight.

Another small break in the lull in the ground war was reported just below the demilitar-

Fourth Annual Pow Wow of Champions Scheduled by Indians For August 10

Kingston Indians, and its junior corps, Troops 12 Indians Drum and Bugle Corps, will sponsor their fourth annual Junior Pow Wow of Champions at Dietz Stadium, Aug. 10 at 8 p.m.

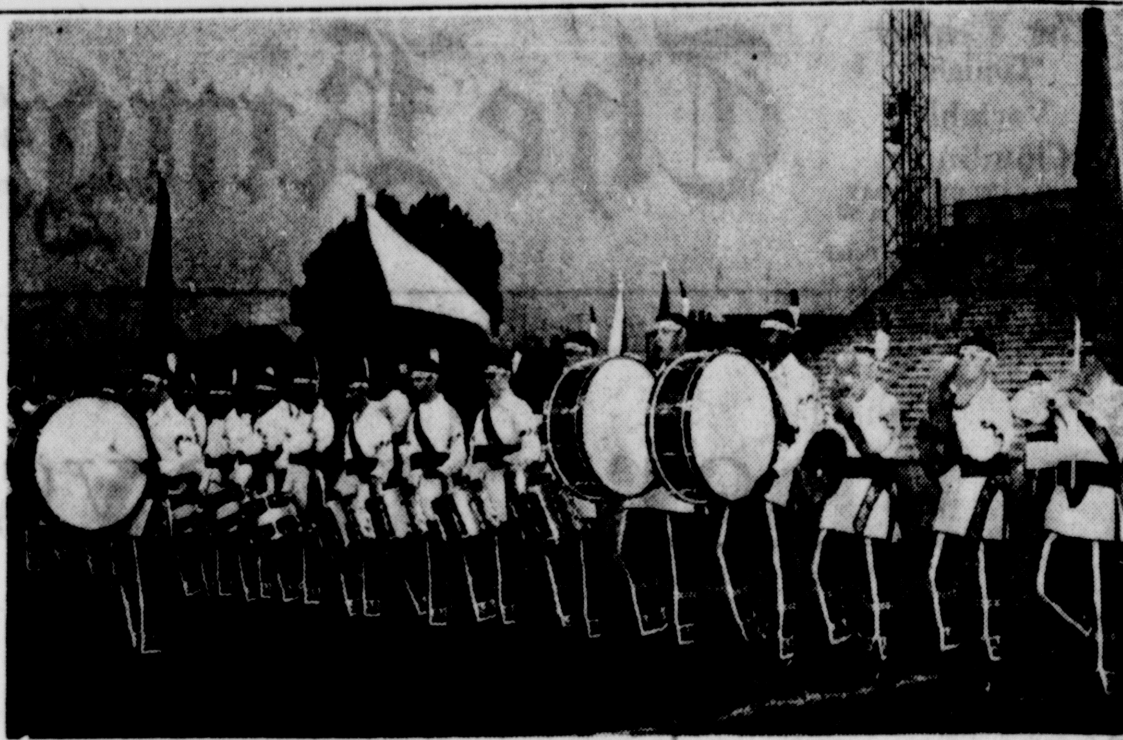

This international championship contest will feature seven top corps from the United States and Canada in competition for the coveted '69 Pow Wow Title, and exhibitions by the host corps, the Indians. Corps entered that have previously competed in Kingston include the Les Metropolitains from Montreal, Quebec, the Garfield Cadets from Garfield, N. J., and the P.A.L. Cadets from Bridgeport, Conn.

Those that will be appearing in this city for the first time will include the St. Raphael's Golden Buccaneers from Bridgeport, Conn., St. Joseph's Patrons from Brooklyn, the Shoreliners from Milford, Conn. and the St. Aeden's Emerald Cadets from New Haven, Conn.

For those that are already drum corps fans, this year's show promises to be one of the best held in this area. To those who have never seen a modern drum corps contest, this presents an opportunity to discover a very new experience.

The Kingston Indians are appearing in new uniforms this year, maintaining the Indian theme, but custom-adapted to a military appearance. People attending the Pow Wow will see why they have been getting standing ovations where they have been performing. Led on the field by Drum Major "Chick" Buboltz, and expertly aided by Assistant Drum Major John Sottile, Color Captain Peter Wells and Color Sergeant William Reynolds, the Corps will drill to their '68 repertoire which includes: Indian Fanfare, Dagger Dance, Apache, High Noon, Old Devil Moon, Similau, Bound for the Promised Land, Battle Hymn of the Republic, and Big Country.

Retirement, Sewer District Ulster Board Discussions

By LYNN MULVANEY

The Town of Ulster will request entry into the state's retirement system on a contributory basis, it was decided at a meeting of the Town Board last night.

Participation would benefit town employees who would pay an equal share. Ulster expects the necessary information as to procedure will be forthcoming from the state.

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz also reported that the board discussed the Ulster Sewer District and is now awaiting delivery of the engineer's maps which the being revised. A date will then be set for a public hearing which will be followed by a mandatory referendum for the people living in the district involved. Plans for a new garage and town hall were discussed with the supervisor stressing the need to protect valuable highway equipment which is now, out of necessity, exposed to all kinds of weather. He said a public informational meeting will be held prior to a town-wide referendum.

Musialkiewicz told of a letter received from the Town Planning Board Chairman, Francis E. Mulvaney, informing the board that a joint meeting of the Hurley and Ulster planners resulted in Hurley's refusal to favor a joint water district with Ulster.

Retirement, Sewer District — Musialkiewicz, who has applied for a 50 per cent grant for the project, said he would call a public meeting of Spring Lake residents to consider the matter.

Doris Mulvin reported to the board that the zoning ordinance is now in the hands of a planning consultant. An informational meeting will be scheduled when the ordinance is drawn.

A request for a speed zone

for Sunrise Park was referred to the State Division of Traffic Control.

A request for a street light at the intersection of Main Street and Sheehan Lane, Ruby, was authorized.

Supervisor Musialkiewicz proposed to the board that a study be conducted on the feasibility of erecting a housing project for senior citizens in the Town of Ulster.

Information received from County Legislator Paul Brazier was considered in relation to proposed tax mapping and revaluation. The board decided it had insufficient information with which to draw a conclusion at this time.

A amendment to the present dog ordinance will be aired at a public hearing Aug. 1 at 7 p. m. in the Grange Hall. It calls for inoculation of all dogs against rabies.

At the same time a proposed jumping law will be considered.

$133,817 Tax Share for Kingston

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan today, issued a "What do you expect" statement over the failure of the Ulster County Legislature to adopt a county sales tax at its meeting last night.

At the same time, the Mayor confirmed receipt of another check from the state, this one for $133,817.19 as the city's share of the two per cent sales tax, started on March 1.

Coupled with a previous check of $80,000, sent two weeks ago by the state, Kingston's share from March 1 through May 30 comes to $213,817.19.

When Garraghan proposed the sales tax for the city, he estimated that receipts from March through December of this year would amount to about $325,000 and said that in 1969, the city's share of the tax should amount to $1,100,000.

This additional check from the state is ample proof that I wasn't going overboard when I estimated the revenue the city would derive from a sales tax," the mayor said.

When the Common Council adopted the tax earlier in the year, merchants of the city claimed it would drive shoppers out of Kingston and lead to the eventual ruin of the city's merchant community.

The merchants expressed favor to a county sales tax or even a regional tax, encompassing most of the counties in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

However, city officials remained firm in the fact of the heavy criticism from the businessmen. Peter Mancuso, Common Council finance chairman said, "No one likes taxes but they are the only way to pay the city's bills which have increased markedly in the past few years."

The city itself does not collect on the sales tax. It is a state operation. The state collects four per cent from Kingston vendors on the same items as previously and the city receives in the mail, the checks for two per cent of the monies collected. The initial payment of $80,000 arrived on June 28 and the second was received this morning. The next check is expected about the 10th of August.

On Car Insurance

There's big trouble in auto insurance and the federal government has initiated an investigation of the car insurance industry.

Insurance rates have soared—up 44 per cent in 10 years. In spite of this, the companies are not getting rich. At least 80 firms have failed since 1961 and thousands of policyholders were stranded until they reinsured.

If the investigation just points the finger only at the insurance firms, it will be doing an injustice. In the first place the insurers are taking steps to correct some of the inadequacies. In addition, the entire field of auto insurance and everything that affects it like Topsy "just grew" without any coherent planning, standardization or establishment of values and guidelines.

Thus, there is a maze of state requirements and regulations varying from compulsory insurance to no requirements at all.

There is a wild variation in damage awards and the trend has become increasingly higher. There is more than a suspicion in some cases of shoddy shenanigans involving those suing and those being sued.

Courtrooms are jammed with liability cases and delays before trial go on for years.

The insurance industry points out with validity that any meaningful reforms involve questions of equity and public policy which will have to be resolved by our whole society.

Automobile traffic has skyrocketed in recent years to such an extent that a mounting incidence of accidents is inevitable even under the best of conditions.

Finally, the real villain in the automobile situation is not the insurance industry, nor the government, but the irresponsible driver who causes most accidents.

Wage-Price Guideline

The last three years, Arthur M. Ross has been Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, where he was in charge of the Consumer Price Index. Upon retiring to become vice president of the University of Michigan, he expressed his personal faith in the wage-price index, with modifications to make it work.

Ross said that the wage-price index should not be arbitrarily imposed but negotiated each year between the three interested parties—labor, management and government. And that it should be economically sound.

For three and a half years, the wage-price index did some good before they were ended in 1966. The era that followed of wages that had no relation to productivity and prices that tried to preserve some relation with wages brought on the runaway inflation under which we are still suffering.

"I would have the Government promulgate every year a wage and price rise figure that would be sound economically," Rose said. "I would involve labor and management integrally. I wouldn't think the figure would come by agreement among labor, management and Government, but would be negotiated rather than arbitrarily imposed."

There is a formula for the incoming President to put to the test. Insofar as it holds the promise of halting inflation, it could be one of his most useful acts soon after inauguration.

Control of Aging

During this century, the average life expectancy has been dramatically increased. Yet the maximum life span has changed little throughout recorded history. The diseases of aging continue to limit the life span.

Now comes Dr. Howard J. Curtis, a senior biologist at the Brookhaven National Laboratories, who suggests that it might be possible ultimately to control aging by treating the body so that its DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) the hereditary substance that provides for the continuity of life, remained stable.

In a paper presented at a symposium on medical chemistry at Laval University in Quebec, Dr. Curtis argued that gradual modification of DNA throughout the body leads to aging and the diseases of old age. Knowledge of what makes some DNA molecules more stable than others might lead to treatment of the human body to stabilize its DNA and thereby control the aging process.

All of the information needed to control the structure and function of every body cell is coded in DNA molecules. Thus, DNA, is the key, not only to heredity but to the functioning of life. It is a breathtaking prospect, one that in time and after much painstaking testing one day may lead to the discovery of how aging may be controlled.

President Johnson has reaffirmed his pledge to seek the vote for 18-year-olds as a national affirmation of faith in our youth. He said democracy speaks out in the ballot box, the ballot is the right on which all others rest. The vote at 18 is definitely on the way.

"We'll Give Him Two Aspirin Every Four Hours!"

David Lawrence Says

U.S. Court Denounced By Pa. Chief Justice

WASHINGTON — It isn't often that Chief Justice of the highest court of one of the largest states in the union speaks out publicly in denunciation of several opinions of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Chief Justice John C. Bell, Jr., of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in addressing the convention of the District Attorneys' Association of his state, bemoaned the fact that the United States has become a "land of unrest, lawlessness, violence and disorder—a land of turmoil, of rioting, looting, shootings."

The main theme of Justice Bell's speech is contained in the following paragraph:

"The recent decisions of a majority of the Supreme Court of the United States which shackle the police and the courts and make it terrifically difficult—as you well know—to protect society from crime and criminals, are, I repeat, among the principal reasons for the turmoil and the near-revolutionary conditions which prevail in our country, and especially in Washington."

Discussing the reasons why respect for law and order, as well as respect for "any public or private authority," is rapidly vanishing, Justice Bell blames a number of factors. First, he says, many political leaders are stirring up unrest, discontent and greed, and many racial, church and college leaders are advocating "mass civil

While the Justice agrees that there is need for reforms and that the poor and the unemployed must be helped, he declares that this does not justify the breaking of any of our laws, the resort to violence, burning and looting or property, or sit-ins, lie-ins, and blockading of buildings.

But the Pennsylvania jurist also points out that the "blackmailing demands" of those who advocate defiance of law and order "under the cloak of worthy objectives"—and who commit all kinds of illegal actions which they mislabel "civil rights"—are harming and not helping their cause. He says:

"Let's face it—a dozen recent revolutionary decisions by a majority of the Supreme Court of the United States in favor of murderers, robbers, rapists and other dangerous criminals, which astonish and dismay countless law-abiding citizens who look to our courts for protection and help, and the mollycoddling of lawbreakers and dangerous criminals by many judges—each and all of these are worrying and frightening millions of law-abiding citizens and are literally jeopardizing the future welfare of our country. Is this still America?"

Chief Justice Bell calls on the District Attorneys to see that persons who violate the law are prosecuted promptly, and to conduct the prosecutions so as to "comply with all the recently created technical standards" set up by Supreme Court rulings. He recommends, however, that the District Attorneys' Association take a position publicly with respect to every decision of the Supreme Court of the United States which "the association is convinced is unfair to our law-abiding people and is unjustified by the Constitution and any statutory law."

He urges that a copy of all the association's recommendations, resolutions and criticisms be sent to members of Congress, state legislators and the Supreme Court of the United States itself. Chief Justice Bell concludes:

"Finally, you must fight with all your might and power and as never before for all the law-abiding people of our wonderful state who are consciously or unconsciously relying upon you and the courts to protect them from felonious criminals and from all law-breakers."

Justice Bell, a Republican, was elected in 1959 for a 21-year term on the State Supreme Court and became Chief Justice by seniority. His address, delivered this week, is one of the most vehement denunciations of the Supreme Court of the United States since 1958 when the conference of state chief justices, by a vote of 36 to 8, adopted a report criticizing the high court for a lack of "judicial self-restraint" and for rendering decisions that were not in keeping with the spirit or the letter of the Constitution itself.

Drew Pearson Says Congressmen Seal Their Report On Burton-Taylor Love Life

WASHINGTON — One of the most carefully guarded confidential reports on Capitol Hill pertains to the love life of Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. It is tightly partly because it shows that Rep. Michael Feighan, the Cleveland, Ohio, Democrat, had nothing better to do than pry into the alleged indiscretions of these famous lovers. The official excuse, of course, was to protect the nation from "material offensive to public morals" by barring Burton from playing "Hamlet" in New York.

At any rate, the transcript was "sealed forever." However, we have obtained a copy and believe the nation is strong enough to survive its most lurid passages.

Rep. Feighan, as chairman of the House Immigration Committee, began gravely: "The subcommittee will come to order. The purpose of this meeting is to inquire into the administration of the Immigration and Nationality Act in the context of the Richard Burton case."

He called as his key witness Abba Schwartz, then in charge of the State Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

"Do I understand," demanded indignant Feighan, "that the bureau that you administer regards the flaunting of immorality as a public virtue, as unworthy of special concern? I just ask you, surely you do not mean that the public overtones and public undertones of the Burton-Taylor case so evident to the mature mind were not recognized by this experienced consular officer?" (Feighan referred to the official who issued the Burton visa.)

"I think he performed his functions correctly under the existing laws and regulations," said Schwartz.

"Were you or the visa-issuing officer aware of statements made by responsible religious leaders in the United States decrying the evil effects of this widely publicized international escapade... upon the morals of our American youth?" asked the Congressman from Cleveland.

"I am personally unaware of those," said Schwartz. He went on to explain that even an admission of adultery would not have barred Burton from the country.

"I want to know," inquired Rep. Arch Moore, R-W. Va., "is Richard Burton guilty of adultery?"

"I have no knowledge," said Schwartz helplessly. "I assume, having seen the affectionate embraces spread across the newspapers of America, it is reasonable to conclude that at some time or other this indiscretion has occurred," suggested Moore. He merely wanted to know what the "indiscretion" would be called in view of Burton's status as a divorced man.

"I do not have an answer whether or not the divorced person is guilty of adultery," Schwartz said. "There is no question that the married person is."

"There is not any question," added Moore sternly. "that his coming to the United States is to deal in an immoral act, whether the term 'adultery' or 'immoral act' is interchangeable... Certainly, he is going to come in here for sexual reasons, at least, which is the very, very minimum."

"He is coming in here principally... as far as I know," suggested Schwartz, "to appear in the play 'Hamlet' in New York."

"Have you considered revocation of the visa issued to Mr. Richard Burton?" inquired Feighan.

"Mr. Chairman," confessed Schwartz, "I have not."

"Well, why not?" demanded Feighan.

"I do not know the ground of revocation," Schwartz replied.

Another Official Quizzed
Immigration Commissioner

Raymond Farrell was summoned next behind closed. He explained that Burton had been permitted to stop in Los Angeles on his way to Canada, where he was rehearsing for "Hamlet."

"We felt that since we did not have any evidence at the time which would enable us to really substantiate an exclusion order, that we would wait until he came back in from Canada and hope that in the meantime we might be able to acquire some," Farrell suggested hopefully. He offered to question Burton about his love life at some neutral point on the Canadian border.

"At a border point?" asked Moore.

"Yes, sir," said Farrell. "Perhaps at Niagara Falls."

As it happened, Burton demonstrated his honorable intentions by marrying Miss Taylor in Canada. If they stopped at Niagara Falls, it was for a honeymoon.

Note: Abba Schwartz later was hounded out of the State Department by the congressional vigilantes who by blocking immigration want to keep America a closed society. He has now written an engrossing book about his misadventures in government. It is called "The Open Society."

Rockets and Saigon
The Army is finding it almost impossible to stop the rocket shelling of Saigon.

The guerrillas sneak into a rice paddy and mold rocket launchers out of mud in the dikes. The mud is shaped into the exact circumference of the rocket, then dried under the hot sun until it hardens.

The mud launchers are carefully angled to guide rockets into Saigon. By this means, one guerrilla can launch a volley of rockets by wiring them all to a single ignition device and setting them off with flashlight batteries.

By the time the Americans figure out where the rockets came from, the lone guerrilla has disappeared.

French Elections Point Up Valuable Lesson for U.S.

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There's a lesson for the United States in the recent French elections.

Whether one likes Gen. Charles de Gaulle or resents him, the vote was exceedingly revealing:

The government party men won heavily. Strong gains were made by other moderate candidates. The extremist groups, which seemed so powerful in the universities and on the streets or Paris, took a thrashing at the polls.

Yet there was a period only a brief time back when it was predicted the roaring, rioting students and their allies would bring the downfall of the French government. Authority, it was said, would collapse.

There is a strange tendency in this country to believe that a few hundred or a few thousand shouting, burning men and women somehow represent the will of the majority.

That belief is intensified and the cause somehow made just if the rioters are led by a small group of students and professors or by men and women in the arts and professions.

A few rioting students, including 14- and 15-year-olds, triggered the fall of a government in Saigon a few years back.

The antagonism toward President Diem of South Vietnam by quite a small group of what were termed "intellectuals" caused the United States to turn its back on Diem, opening the door for a military coup and diem's assassination.

Student riots in a number of other Latin and Asian countries have set off coups, revolutions and other violent types of government take-over in the past 40 years.

The situation was so bad in Mexico roughly two decades ago that the government moved the University of Mexico out of the center of the capital hoping thus to reduce the disrupting political influence of demonstrating, rioting students. The university was rebuilt in the suburbs, so that police and troops could block student marchers from the politically strategic city center.

In most of these student political riots, which have ranged from Mexico to Panama to Chile, from Japan to Vietnam to Indonesia and from Germany to France to Italy in times gone by, the students have been reinforced by two types of "ringers":

The perennial student, in the university to organize, not study, who takes a few easy courses year after year.

The outsider, who moves in from an organized group in the city to lend his technical skills to the student demonstrations.

These ringers were present in the French riots. They were at Columbia, California and other major shows of force on American university campuses.

Despite the crucial influence some student riots have had on governments, a careful analysis of those student riots this reporter has detailed knowledge of indicates that despite some notable exceptions more often than not they represent the will of only a small minority of students and nonstudents alike.

Ronan's $70,000 a Year Job

By GERRY MCLAUGHLIN

man who was little known to the public when he was Gov. Rockefeller's secretary is proving emphatically that government service can indeed be rewarding.

Just over a decade ago, William J. Ronan, a Phi Beta Kappa and dean of New York University's Graduate School of Public Administration and Social Service, was drawing something in the neighborhood of $20,000 a year.

Today, after serving as secretary and chief aide man to Rockefeller for nearly 10 years, the 55-year-old Buffalo native is chairman of the massive Metropolitan Transportation Authority MTA. The MTA reported the other day that Ronan recently was voted a $25,000 pay boost, to $70,000 a year.

Only President Johnson, who receives $100,000 a year, earns a bigger salary as a public official.

That report was more than enough to quicken the pulses of public officials throughout the state. For it seemed to accelerate the trend, in this state government, at least, toward bigger and bigger financial returns for handling big jobs.

Even Ronan's detractors — and there are some in high Republican councils — acknowledge his contributions to the Rockefeller record and his accomplishments as a transportation innovator.

But $70,000? The MTA governing board doesn't seem concerned by the size of the increase. Fiscal whiz William Shea — the man they named the stadium after — spoke for the board in defense of the boost.

He noted that many top policy-makers in the private corporate sector of the nation's economy earn upwards of $100,000 a year. He pointed out that the chairman's job now carries even heavier responsibilities, since the MTA took over the Transit Authority and the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority. But the emergence of Ronan as the second-highest paid public official in the 50 states undoubtedly will not go unnoticed by young people who are considering a career in government.

They have other examples of the financial potential in top professional government jobs. Edward J. Logue, for instance, the hard-nosed straw boss of the urban renovation projects in New Haven and Boston, has taken a similar job with New York State at $40,000 a year.

Dr. James E. Allen, education commissioner, and State University President Samuel B. Gould now receive $45,000 a year.

Under Rockefeller's administration, there has developed a belief that the state would have to pay a top dollar to woo top men away from the financial rewards of private enterprise.

8 The Black Rebels

The history of American slavery is marked by the occurrence of at least 250 reported Negro conspiracies and revolts.

—Herbert Aptheker

Among the many myths about the Negro is the claim that he must have been well-suited for slavery because he never rebelled. In truth, he did rebel, time and again, beginning as early as 1502 on Hispaniola, 10 years after Columbus' first voyage.

The African slave trade was ever a dangerous business. Slaves frequently mutinied, and sometimes succeeded. Other cases are on record of whole boatloads of slaves jumping overboard or otherwise committing suicide.

The first revolt in what was to be the United States took place in present-day South Carolina in 1526 when Negroes killed their Spanish masters and fled to the Indians. In 1663, a conspiracy among black slaves and white servants was put down in Virginia. In 1712, 21 slaves were publicly executed in New York City for their part in a revolt. In 1739, a slave named Cato led a revolt at Stono, S.C., in which 25 whites were killed.

Following the Revolution, a band of Negroes who had been trained by the British and who called themselves "the King of England's soldiers" waged guerrilla warfare from the swamps of Georgia. Many slaves fled to Florida and joined the Seminoles in their long war against the white man.

The greatest rebellion of all occurred on Haiti in the last decade of the 18th century, led by the brilliant Toussaint L'Ouverture. This revolution forced Napoleon to give up his dream of an empire in America. Thus a Negro freedom fighter helped make it possible for the United States to double its size through the Louisiana Purchase from France in 1803. A major revolt was attempted in Virginia in 1800. A storm, plus betrayal, foiled the plan of one Gabriel Prosser and 1,000 fellow slaves to seize Richmond.

The most elaborate conspiracy, involving thousands of Negroes, was led by a former slave, Denmark Vesey, in Charleston, S.C., in 1822. But several years of planning were upset by the betrayal of a house servant.

The most famous insurrection of all, and the one that inspired the most terror throughout the South, was that of Nat Turner, a mystic who received signs from heaven. On August 21, 1831, he and 70 other slaves attacked farms in Southampton County, Va. Before they were defeated, 60 white men, women and children were dead.

Nat Turner was hanged at a town called Jerusalem,

Approval of Sub Rickover Victory

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford has set the stage for a possible expansion of the U.S. nuclear attack submarine force with his approval of a new superfast model.

Clifford told a news conference Thursday he has ordered the top scientific and technical brains to work on the vessel, understood to carry a price tag of around $185 million.

This is $100 million more than the latest Sturgeon class atomic sub whose mission is to hunt and kill enemy underwater craft.

Another Faces Ax

The authorization was a partial victory for Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the Navy's nuclear expert, who was pushing the Pentagon for advanced American submarines to meet the growing Soviet undersea force.

But as Clifford announced he had authorized the new sub Rickover helped design, he left open the possibility another Rickover favorite—a superquiet sub—may get the ax.

This submarine, which could track enemy vessels with great stealth, was approved last year but the Pentagon has been threatening to abandon it to save money.

Rickover, a congressional favorite, has been arguing through Capitol Hill committees for the quiet sub, but the outlook has dimmed. Clifford said a decision on its fate will be forthcoming in the next few weeks.

The approved sub—Clifford didn't say how much faster it would be than present 30-knot vessels—is slated for full budgeting in 1970, defense officials said. Long-lead-time parts are sought under the fiscal 1969 budget now before Congress.

The authorized nuclear attack force stands at 69 submarines, about half of which have been built, with the other half either under construction or approved.

Work on the last four is scheduled to begin in 1969 and 1970, and defense officials said the high-speed version will be one of the last two models.

Officials say this leaves open the possibility that after 1970 the 69-ship ceiling might be raised to permit construction of more of the new superfast subs, highly advanced over the latest Sturgeon class, to maintain a check on the Soviet submarine fleet.

Pentagon Prodded

Congress has been prodding the Pentagon to make certain the United States maintains qualitative if not quantitative superiority over the Soviet Union in this field.

Attack submarines are gaining in importance as the Soviets move to deploy more atomic subs capable of launching long-range ballistic missiles.

The Soviets currently have more than 400 submarines, including an unspecified number of missile-launching types, plus nuclear-powered and diesel-driven attack craft.

The U.S. sub force stands at 146 which includes 41 polaris missile boats—nothing more than nuclear-powered launch platforms—and 105 attack submarines, two-thirds of which are diesel vessels built during World War II.

Going to Vietnam

Clifford also told reporters he is going to Vietnam Saturday.

his first trip to the war zone as defense chief.

Along with Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Army Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Clifford will be conducting talks with battle commanders on how to deal with what the defense secretary said was "the possibility of a new offensive on the part of enemy forces in July or possibly August."

Clifford said intelligence reports show the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have built up their strength to eight or more divisions below the demilitarized zone.

In spite of this increase, Clifford said the restricted, though heavy bombing of North Vietnam has been "quite an effective operation."

The enemy pays "an increasingly high cost—as they go through the panhandle south of the 20th parallel," he told newsmen.

Pueblo Resolution Due

State Marines Meeting in City

By WALTER S. CLARK

A resolution calling on Washington officials to take immediate steps to secure the release of the U. S. Pueblo and its crew, will be offered at a business session during the 37th annual convention of the Department of New York Marine Corps League.

Gov. Clinton Sessions

The resolution had previously been unanimously passed by the Ulster Detachment Marine Corps League at its Spring meeting. If it is adopted at the current convention being held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, it will be forwarded to the National convention to convene in Bridgeport, Conn. in August.

Gilbert E. Gray, chairman of the state convention, and a delegation of members representing the Ulster Detachment will attend next month's sessions.

The resolution on the Pueblo notes that the Marine Corps League opposes any further delay in the return of the ship to the United States by the government of North Korea.

The resolution reads in part: "We strongly resent the fact that our ship, The Pueblo and her entire crew was kidnapped on the high seas by a foreign power, and since the time of capture we have been unable to make any headway in securing her release and the release of the crew." Urging immediate action to recover the ship, the resolution notes, "no matter what steps they find necessary to take," should be taken by Washington officials to return the Pueblo and its crew to this country.

The 37th convention of the

New York Marine Corps League opened Thursday with a staff meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The event was officially opened at 10 a.m. today followed by business sessions of the League and its auxiliary. A Country Barn dance is scheduled in the Crystal Room of the hotel at 8 p.m. today.

The New York State Pack, M.O.D.D. will attend a "growl" in the boiler room at the hotel at midnight with a "flea scratch" scheduled at the same time in the Civic Room.

Banquet Saturday

Saturday's program will open with a business session in the Garden Lounge followed by a luncheon in the General Sharpe room for past department presidents. A memorial service is planned for 1 p.m. tomorrow at Academy Green, followed by business sessions and a cocktail party from 7 to 7:45 p.m.

A military ball and banquet in the Crystal Room will start at 8 p.m. Saturday.

A Department staff meeting will be held Sunday at the direction of the newly elected department officers.

The Ulster Detachment is hosting approximately 300 members of the state unit.

By GARY GREENBAUM

CHICAGO (AP) — More than $1.3 million has been spent so far in Chicago for the Democratic National Convention, which may be moved out of the city unless a strike affecting preparations is settled.

Mayor Richard J. Daley, a power in Democratic party councils, repeatedly has laughed off reports his city might lose the convention. He has insisted the convention will go on in Chicago Aug. 26 as scheduled.

No Plans Yet

But Tuesday John M. Bailey, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, which runs the quadrennial nominating conventions, said, "I don't rule out the possibility we might move if the labor difficulties are not resolved by the end of next week."

Bailey added that there are no present plans for a move.

Daley continues to tell newsmen: "We'll have a good, old-fashioned, old-time Democratic convention with the delegates in charge and maybe without you media folks all over the place." A strike in progress since May 8 against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is threatening the convention that would bring thousands of delegates, alternates, their wives and families, plus other thousands of aides and onlookers to Chicago for most of a week.

On strike and picketing are members of a local of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. These are the specialists who install telephones, television cables and other communications equipment in the International Amphitheatre, the convention hall, and hotels where the delegations set up headquarters.

Hot Dogs

TOKYO (UPI)—A Japanese industrial firm will market an electric heater to warm dog houses—the first dog house heater ever developed. Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. said the gimmick will go on sale in August, a hot month in Tokyo.

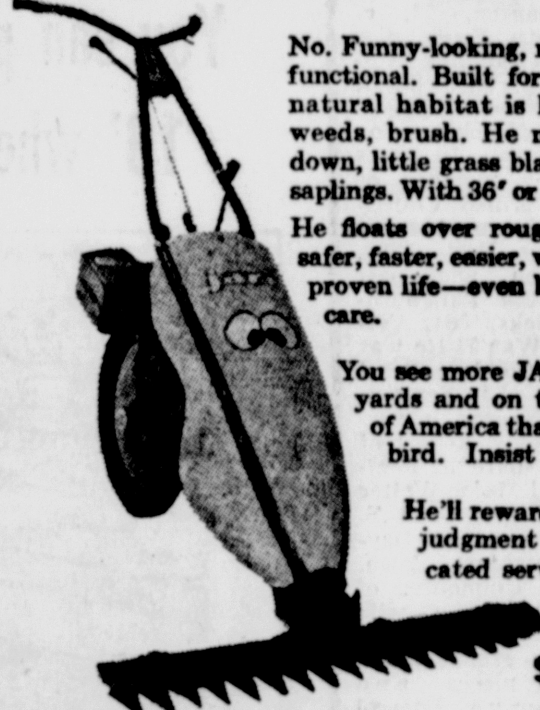

A picket line at any of these locations most likely would keep other craftsmen off the job—carpenters, painters and others needed to get the hall and rooms into shape.

Joseph O'Brien, Bell spokesman, said the longer the strike continues "the less facilities for news coverage there will be." He said Bell has spent $400,000 of the $1.5 million it expects to spend on installations. This would be lost if the convention moved to another city.

O'Brien said television network coverage might be impossible if the strike goes on much longer. "Installing their lines is the most time consuming, and time is what we're running out of. Only so many men fit in a manhole; we couldn't make up the delay by adding extra crews."

The city of Chicago will have to write off more than $400,000 if the convention falls through, officials said. Chicago pledged $750,000 to the party's expense chest and threw in an additional $300,000 promise for miscellaneous expenses.

FUNNY BIRD

No. Funny-looking, maybe. But functional. Built for work. His natural habitat is high grass, weeds, brush. He mows them down, little grass blades to 1 3/4" saplings. With 36" or 44" snout... He floats over rough terrain—safer, faster, easier, with a longer proven life—even before medicare.

Rochester Passes Dumping Measure

A public hearing was held prior to last night's Rochester Town Board Meeting at Accord for discussion on a proposed amendment dealing with dumping regulations at the town dump. It is reported that no private citizens attended the hearing.

After a short discussion, the Board unanimously passed a resolution which prohibits the junking of abandoned or useless autos at the dump. A fine of five dollars or a term of five days in jail was set for offenders of the new law. The decision will go on the books as an amendment to a 1954 law which prohibits the discarding of dead animals on the Town's dumping facilities.

The Board members also agreed to purchase a machine-trailer at a cost of $5,874. The new equipment will be financed through a budget note to be payable in Feb. 1969. Tentative plans were also made at last night's meeting for the reconstruction of Route 209 on the east side of the Rondout Creek. Town Supervisor Franklin Kelder will have a map of the proposed reconstruction site on public display at his office. Supervisor Kelder also discussed some of the topics that were mentioned at the District Highway Superintendent's meeting, which he attended recently in Poughkeepsie.

Gun Registration

CHICAGO (AP)—Gun control in Chicago is under an ordinance that requires gun owners to register each gun, but new guns are being registered at the rate of 500 daily since the official registration period closed May 15.

Maj. Gen. Francis P. Kane, special assistant for gun registration, said the total registered has reached more than 357,000 with additional registrations mounting as mail is opened.

"The registrations continue to come in," he said. "Although there is no breakdown in the new or used gun categories, it is believed that the new registrations represent new guns purchased through dealers."

The gun ordinance makes it an offense to possess a gun—handgun, shotgun, rifle, even an antique or old war souvenir—that is not registered.

Ulster Heights Home Damaged By Blaze

Fire caused extensive damage to a one-story frame building on the property of the Grandview Bungalow Colony owned by the Kramer family at Ulster Heights this morning.

Ellenville fire units in charge of Chief George Garrison and Assistant Chief Robert Madden were dispatched to the scene after the fire was reported to police at 5:23 a. m. Firemen pumped water from a nearby swimming pool to add to the supply on the fire apparatus as they battled the blaze.

Madden said the building where the fire erupted near a chimney is occupied by sleeping quarters in the rear, a store and laundry operated by Sarah Brenen. Fire officials said the flames extended through the center of the building and burned through the roof.

Fire units reported back in service at 7:10 a. m. Officials said the exact cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, and reported the fire started near a chimney. Madden noted that at no time were other buildings in the bungalow colony in danger.

Police Problem

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Deputy Police Inspector Allen Oldenburg said Tuesday a new state law requiring all motorcycle riders to wear approved crash helmets is being watched carefully by Milwaukee police. Oldenburg said it's not certain the city's motorcycle police crash helmets meet the requirements.

Shows Displeasure With Bridge Repairs

Legislator Frank L. Miller, R-2nd District, this week expressed his displeasure with the repairs being made on the U&D bridge on Hurley Mountain Road.

Miller, chairman of the Legislature's Bridge and Highways Committee, in a letter to State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, R-Ulster-Dutchess, said partially repairing this bridge is no answer to the problem. The county is responsible for the roadbed, The Ulster and Delaware Division of the Penn-Central Railroad owns the bridge and is currently making repairs while the span is closed to traffic.

Miller said that this bridge, even if newly reconstructed as it was in 1981, would be unable to carry present day traffic loads and can only accommodate one-way traffic. In its present condition it is such an extreme hazard that the County Highway Department closed the road and bridge to all traffic. The abutments have fallen apart, Miller said, and the bridge has sunk 17 inches in the past three years and has shifted obliquely about one foot. A heavy truck, fire apparatus or school bus running over it might prove disastrous, Miller said.

Miller, his committee, and acting County Highway Superintendent George Fitchner inspected the bridge earlier this week with Sen. Rolison and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, R-Ulster. Miller said the loose stone and cement abutments should be removed and replaced with concrete abutments wide enough to accommodate a two-lane roadbed.

He said the character of the approaches would permit this, and would obviate the necessity for a multitude of timber bracing and substructure which has grown up under this bridge since its last reconstruction in 1917. Miller said most of this is rotting and crumbling at the ends and bearing points.

Miller stressed that the county cannot build a decent, durable deck or railing on this bridge, even if the railroad attempts repair of the abutments, as there is nothing to tie them to. The bridge is being held up by all sorts of cob-house cribbing to which nothing can be fastened, Miller concluded.

Hurt in Crash

Cherilyn Yachnowitz of Greenfield Park, was injured shortly before 8 a. m. today when her car was in collision with a parked car on Center Street in Ellenville. Police said the woman was driving east when she drove to the right to avoid an oncoming vehicle and her car hit a parked sedan owned by Abe Masor of Ellenville. The injured woman was taken to the Community Hospital by police and treated for injuries of the head and knees. The Yachnowitz 1968 car was towed from the scene.

HALT DEVELOPMENT — The Pentagon has called a halt to development of the F111B, the Navy version of the F111 jet fighter bomber. There appeared to be little chance but to issue the order because the Senate has voted to eliminate funds for the trouble-plagued triplane. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Another Border Incident As Mideast War Continues

By United Press International
Gunfire cracked across the Jordanian-Israeli frontier today. Israeli spokesmen in Jerusalem said Jordanian troops opened fire across the Jordan River and Israeli forces fired back. No casualties were reported.

The incident occurred one day after President Gamal Abdel Nasser told President Tito of Yugoslavia the Arab nations would resort to force if no political solution to the Middle East crisis was forthcoming.

The United Arab Republic can do nothing but to prepare itself to achieve the solution to the crisis by force if Israel does not bow to Arab demands and give up occupied Arab territory, Nasser said at Tito's Brioni Island retreat. His remarks were carried by the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug. At the same time, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad denied saying in Copenhagen last week that his nation accepted Israel as one of the Middle East realities.

In Stockholm, Sweden, Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin was expected to meet with Gunnar Jarring U.N. Middle East peace envoy, before Saturday night on possible solutions to the crisis.

OK Glasco Water Improvements

The $280,000 improvement project for Glasco Water District was approved at Thursday night's meeting of Saugerties Town Board, and the engineers, Brinnier and Larios were authorized to proceed with the advertising for public bidding on the project.

The work proposed will improve the flow of water from Saugerties Village water system which sells the supply to the district. The project will be financed with a 30-year bond issue. The matter was discussed at a public hearing in Glasco on June 27 where only minor objections were raised. The project will include additional 12-inch water mains and a one million gallon steel standpipe to increase the storage capacity of the system. The Glasco Water system serves the Glasco and Barclay Heights areas.

In connection with the project, Robert Gardner, one of the financial advisers to Supervisor A. Michael Schovel objected to the price of the Trio

Apartment property on Route 9W owned by Filomena Mauro under option to the district for right-of-way purposes and space for district storage. The site would also provide space for a polling place needed in the district. The price in the option is $23,000. Gardner objected because he said the property is on the town assessment roll for $13,500.

Councilman Bernard Rinaldi said the board considered the need of the property and had to pay the price. Residents along Churchland Road filed a petition with 101 names objecting to the air pollution coming from Hudson Valley Lightweight Aggregate Corp. plant on that road. Hen-pole 27. The Town Board will try Sagazie as spokesman for the group. It was noted that the plant has dust collectors but they are not being used.

Supervisor Schovel said the Town Board would investigate the matter. Schovel also announced that the Town Board would hold an executive session to go over the existing trailer ordinance for possible amendments.

A communication from County Legislator Paul Brazier requested that a street light be installed on Flatbush Road at contact Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. to request a survey of this matter. Councilman Rinaldi proposed a resolution commending Saugerties Jaycees for their successful July 4th observance in the village which brought national attention to Saugerties. The resolution was approved and publicly congratulating and thanking the young men's group for their efforts.

The Green Thumb

LUPINE CULTURE

One of the showiest of perennials is the lupine. Right now your plants are loaded with seed pods. Should these be cut off? Probably your best bet is to remove the seed pods so strength can go into the roots and rest of the plant. Lupines near the base. These seedlings self-sow and plants sprout up grow into handsome specimens, with some color variation. Some gardeners divide their clumps of lupines in early spring, but I think that sowing seed in the ground any time now, will produce nice plants and when spring rolls around you can transplant them.

Lupines should be moved when small. They have a fleshy tap root and do not move easily when too large. Did you know that the scientific name comes from lupu, Latin for wolf? This alludes to an ancient belief that lupines robbed soil of fertility, which isn't true. If anything, lupines build up soils. They are a member of the pea (legume) family, taking nitrogen from the air and storing it in the roots. One more point about lupines; if you cut the old stalks or seed pods off now, they don't usually give you a second bloom the same year, as many believe.

ROOTING SNAKE PLANTS

If you'd like to start a few "snake" plants (sansevieria) from cuttings, it's simple. Cut the leaf into sections two inches long, and root them in plain sand. The variegated forms CANNOT be started this way, as they produce plants with no striping. Striped snake plants are propagated by division, the only way to make them come true. Snake plants will send forth blossoms if you treat them right. This means a rather bright window, ample moisture and occasional feeding.

GROWING PETUNIAS

If your petunias suddenly wilt and die, perhaps the trouble is due to overwatering. Heavy clay soils are poorly drained, and need the addition of humus—sawdust, peatmoss, compost, etc. to loosen them up. If your petunias are cut off at the base, blame it on cutworm. If cut off higher up, it could be the work of rabbits. Mothballs will often scare the rabbits off. Dust around the base of each plant with Sevin to keep out cutworms.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC

A reader writes "We had some seed left over from spring. How can we keep it over for another year?"

Answer: Put unused seed in a small, air-tight jar and keep it in your refrigerator. Moisture is public enemy No. 1 when it comes to saving seed. Keep moisture out, not in. Temperature is also important. . . the cooler the better.

Pick Right Ladder for the Job

By MR. FIX

What kind of ladder you will buy, or if you even will buy one, depends a lot on just how much you plan to do around the house, the kind of house you own, even your own height and weight.

If you plan to paint your house, you will need a ladder that will put you within reach of the highest gable. If you plan to work on the roof, you will need a ladder that puts you above the eaves. If all you will need it for is checking and cleaning gutters, a shorter ladder will do.

Indoors, a step-ladder will serve every purpose. Smaller step-stools will take care of day-in, day-out reaching.

If you are tall, you can provide some of the extra reach yourself. If short, make up for it with extra length in the ladder. If you tend to be heavy, get a good, sturdy ladder. For the one-floor, ranch-style house, a straight ladder (sometimes called a ranch ladder) should be enough if there isn't much of a roof overhang. If there is an overhang, remember that a ladder tall enough to rest against the overhang may put you too far away from the wall to reach it. You may have to settle for more than one ladder and the best way to do this is with an extension—two ladders that can extend to a great length but which you could take apart.

For the multistory house, the extension ladder is the only thing. The combination ladder looks like a step-ladder until you notice that the rear rail has rungs. As a step-ladder, two people can work on it together, one on each side. The rear unit can be flipped up and used as an extension ladder. Or, like the extension ladder, the combination ladder can be taken apart and used as separate ladders.

Once upon a time, all ladders were made of wood. Now you have a choice of wood or metal and the metal is generally aluminum, sometimes magnesium.

Wood is heavier, is subject to rot, splinters, and may crack or split. But a good wood ladder does not go all at once, as a cheap metal one might, and there is a sturdy, comfortable feel to wood.

Whether wood or metal, when you buy a ladder buy the best. It will last a lifetime and your life—literally—could depend on its quality.

The advantage with aluminum ladders is their lack of weight. If left outdoors, metal ladders are not subject to rotting.

One big warning, though, in connection with metal ladders—don't tangle with electric power lines. The combination is lethal. Of course, even on a wooden ladder you should be staying clear of power lines.

Wood ladders should be free of splinters, have smoothly rounded corners. Metal ladders should not have sharp edges or burrs. Better ladders have reinforced rungs. You may want to pay extra for flat steps, rather than round rungs.

Even with all features apparently the same, there may be differences that account for a price difference. The length may be the same, but not the width. Rails and rungs may not be as thick and wide. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Pinewood: Rural Efficiency

By JACK McLENEY

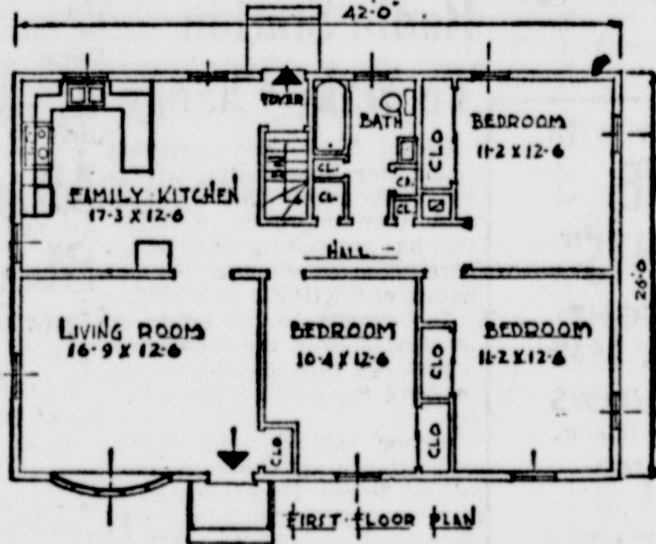

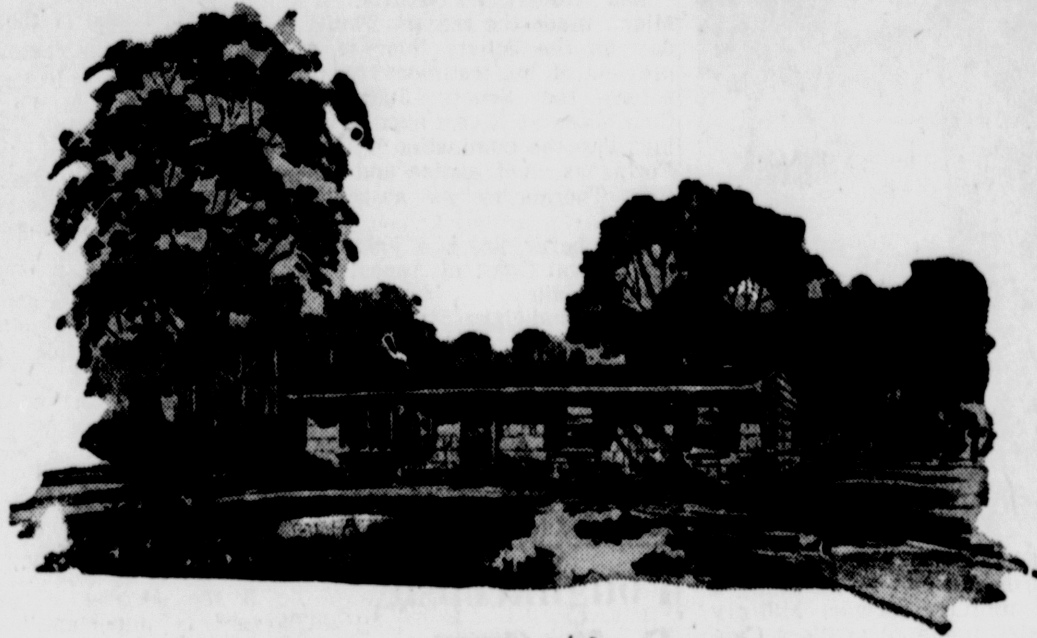

The use of areas that otherwise fall into the category of "dead" space can spell the difference between good and bad functional limits, particularly in the field of small home designing. Today's feature, "The Pinewood," demonstrates this application in a three bedroom economy ranch house.

For a focal point the designer settled upon a family type kitchen with a high degree of efficiency, as well as good appearance. The divided kitchen-dining area is a most useful and attractive unit of the house.

All of the wardrobe closets open to the sleeping areas with modern flush sliding doors and all of the rooms are designed for the easiest possible movement. The living room occupies the choice front - of - the - house position on the left, opening the dining area, making a good traffic pattern, inasmuch as there is no intrusion on the sleeping quarters.

To complete the picture, the exterior shows white cedar shingles left natural all around, with a picture bow window below the 24" overhang front and rear. The overall dimensions of the basic home is 42' x 26', and the living space amounts to 1,092 square feet.

Complete working blueprints are available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon, and they conform to the VA and FHA building requirements.

Fussing With Furnace Now Curtails Problems in Fall

By MR. FIX

The time to worry about your furnace is during the summer. A little fuss and worry during the warm months will assure you that you will have heat when you need it during the cold months.

Checking it over now will reveal problems that can be solved while the heating plant is turned off. If you need professional service you will find that furnace maintenance outfits have more time during the summer. Remember too that an emergency call late at night during the winter when you need service immediately will cost you more in overtime labor pay.

Summer is the time to clean the furnace and smoke pipes. Soot generally contains sulphur dioxide. Combined with dampness during the summer this can cause sulphuric acid which will corrode metal. The smoke pipe from furnace to chimney is likeliest to have an accumulation of soot. Remove it if you can and clean it out with a stiff brush. Brush off interior parts of the furnace you can possibly reach. Use a brush with a long wire handle. Vacuum up dust and soot as you go along.

Inspect joints where the pipe enters the chimney. New mortar may be needed.

Open the cleanout door on the chimney and sweep out the soot. Take a look up the chimney if you can to see if there are any obstructions. Use a mirror. Reach as high as you can with your brush. Other soot will have to be removed from above. A burlap sack filled with straw and weighted with bricks can be lowered a few times in the chimney. Don't try this unless you are an experienced roof crawler.

If you have a coal furnace, inspect grates. Repair if needed. Leave fuel door and ash pit open for air circulation.

If you have access to the inside walls of the combustion chamber, clean and spray with machine oil.

Examine the exterior of metal jacket on furnace. Sand off rust spots, prime and paint.

Use a metallic paint (aluminum) for painting smoke pipes. Replace the pipe if there is any trace of holes.

In a forced air system, inspect motor, belt and pulleys. Lubricate the motor accordingly to the manufacturer's instructions. Examine the belt for proper tension and signs of wear.

Install a clean furnace filter now and you won't have to worry about it in the fall.

On a gas furnace keep the pilot going all summer. The amount of gas it uses is small and the tiny amount of heat will rid the furnace of moisture. Keep it dry. Besides, it will be ready to go on at the first drop in temperature.

If you have an oil system, fill storage tanks now. You may save on lower rates and a full tank is not likely to rust or corrode.

If your furnace has a humidifier, check and clean or replace elements which might have become coated with mineral deposits.

Keep your furnace clean and dry and it will last longer. Much of this you can do yourself. You may need professional service if some mechanical part breaks down but proper maintenance can forestall this. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

No Time Like Present For Snow Melt System

When you have to turn on the air conditioning to keep cool, snow removal is farthest from your mind. However, summer is the proper time to install an automatic snow-melting system in the sidewalk or driveway, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. If you see pipe being laid in the sidewalk somewhere, that's exactly what's going on.

In an automatic system, hot water heated by a boiler or heat exchanger is circulated through the pipe. When snow starts to fall, the system is turned on either manually or automatically, melting the snow before it has a chance to accumulate.

More and more stores, hospitals, churches and other "public" buildings are having such systems installed in sidewalks, parking lots and steps to eliminate the problem of snow removal by a more tedious process, especially in view of labor shortages and the high cost of snow removal when someone is willing to take on this kind of job is available.

Automatic snow-melting is beginning to catch on with homeowners too. You and your neighbors might consider the installation of this convenience as a block undertaking.

True Scholars

DE KALB, Ill. (AP) — The humanistic attitude must be restored if this country is to continue on the "road to excellence," says Dr. Percy Julian, chemist and founder of the Julian Research Institute, Chicago. He expressed his ideas during a lecture at the Northern Illinois University campus.

He said today's educators are "the most sophisticated but the most confused society of scholars ever to inhabit the earth."

He called on the nation's educators to provide a new definition of morality and restore humanism in man's search for truth and knowledge.

Unless educators can overcome the present trend toward the emphasis on development of marketable skills he noted, "it is doubtful that our educational system can develop in abundance those scholars who can hear and feel the throbbing heart of men."

Pruning Narrow Leaf Evergreens — Narrow leafed evergreens include: Junipers, Yews, Arborvitae, Hemlock, and other conifers. These bushes, shrubs and trees require pruning at one time or another to obtain a desirable shape. This pruning should consist of removing some of the new growth to maintain the desired shape and the cutting back of older branches to the point where lateral branches contain adequate foliage. New growth will soon fill in the open areas created by the cuts. Yews may be pruned more severely than other evergreens because their branches contain dormant buds on the stems which the light will cause to open and provide new foliage. Make cuts as smooth and neat as possible, close to the crotch, and avoid tearing the bark. Protect all cuts with a wound dressing.

Shade Trees Are Wilting — Why? Present wilting of shade trees in Dutchess County can be traced to four possible causes. First, injury to the trunk and bark may have resulted from winter freeze damage, rodents, insects or mechanical sources. Secondly excessive seeding of silver and other maples last year has resulted in sparse leaf development this year. Application of three lbs. of 10-10-10 fertilizer for each inch of tree trunk diameter, along with an adequate watering schedule, will help save the trees. Wilting of elms usually indicates the presence of Dutch Elm disease. Remove and burn all diseased bark and limbs as part of a complete sanitation program. Finally, wilting may result from other diseases in the plant. Verticillium wilt and anthracnose are two diseases of shade trees which require special attention.

Ants Are Easy to Control — Visual sighting of ants offers an easy guide for effective ant control. Usually, ants originate from soil outside the house, and travel into the house in search of food and nesting areas. Control is obtained by thoroughly drenching the base and foundation of the house to a height of one foot. Use of Chlordane, at three tablespoons per gallon of water, is recommended. For ants inside the house, spray moldings, baseboards, cracks in floors and walls, or anywhere else you believe ants might be. By applying a long-lasting insecticide, such as Chlordane, to surfaces frequented by ants, you can eliminate present ants as well as protecting against future infestations.

Precautions Being Set For Ray Murder Trial

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Officials preparing for what promises to be the biggest Tennessee trial since the famous "monkey trial" of 1925 are making strict security arrangements.

Officials said Thursday that plans are being made to make a voice and picture tape of every person attending the trial of James Earl Ray, charged with assassinating Dr. Martin Luther King.

Newsmen accredited to cover the trial, expected to be held in late fall, will be given identification cards bearing their photographs.

The trial is scheduled to be held in one of the Shelby County Criminal Court courtrooms so Ray can be brought directly into the court through an underground corridor without being seen by the outside public.

A secondary security line is expected to be established to keep everyone without pressing business out of the Criminal Courts building.

Ray currently is in jail in London awaiting a hearing on his appeal of an extradition order.

"This is a serious matter," said Sheriff William N. Morris, who is in charge of arrangements for the trial.

in strict keeping with established standards of dignity and justice," said Dist. Atty. Gen. Phil M. Canale, who will head the prosecution team.

Inspector Warren Cargill has been placed in charge of physical arrangements for the trial, and he is supervising the remodeling of the interior cell in which Ray would be housed if returned from London.

The largest Criminal Courts courtroom can seat slightly over 100 spectators, and a large number of the seats will be assigned to news media representatives covering the trial, Morris said, however, seats would be reserved for relatives of both Ray and King, and some would be kept for the general public.

No photographs will be allowed in the courtroom, although a ruling has not yet been made on whether pictures will be permitted in the corridors.

Senate Continues Hearings On High Court Nominees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leading opponent of President Johnson's Supreme Court nominations say the two appointees may have been part of "a flagrant disregard of the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers."

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., made the remark Thursday on the Senate floor in a preview of his testimony today before the Senate Judiciary Committee as it continued hearings into the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice and Homer Thornberry as associate justice.

Thornberry now is a judge on the federal Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

The Judiciary Committee opened hearings into the nominations Thursday, but put off questioning of Fortas until next week.

Has A Big Role
Griffin said he wanted to know how big a role Abe Fortas, nominated to succeed Earl Warren as chief justice, played in White House decisions while serving on the court since 1965.

Fortas is a longtime Johnson friend and adviser.

And, Griffin said, he also wants to know why Thornberry, another old friend of the President, served an extra five months in Congress in 1963 after being named a federal judge in Texas.

The senator added: "This situation again suggests a flagrant disregard of the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers."

Griffin said the committee should find out "how many times Mr. Fortas has been consulted, or the extent to which he has been involved, if at all, in actions and decisions of the White House while he has been a member of the court."

Shortly after the committee opened its hearing it agreed to a request by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., that direct questioning of Fortas be delayed until next Tuesday.

The senator, a former justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court, said he wanted to do more research before quizzing Fortas about his "judicial philosophy."

Only Witness

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, the day's only witness, tried to quiet doubts about the legality of the way Warren conditioned his retirement on the qualification of a successor by the Senate.

He said scores of federal judges have been nominated, as Johnson nominated Fortas, while their predecessors were still on the bench.

Ervin insisted, though, that Johnson was without legal authority to nominate Fortas and the Senate to confirm him until Warren makes his retirement "irrevocable."

Since Warren has said he would be obliged to stay on until a successor is confirmed, Ervin said, "it comes down to this: The Senate must confirm Mr. Fortas as chief justice or retain Mr. Warren as chief justice."

Poughkeepsie Radio Station To Make Change

Gerald T. Arthur, president of the Star Broadcasting Group, has made known that the Federal Communications Commission has granted the Star Group permission to change the call letters of WKIP-FM to WSPK.

The change in call letters is the first step in the creation of a new FM broadcasting station to serve the entire Hudson Valley.

Arthur said that the S-P-K call letters were chosen to symbolize Stereo Poughkeepsie, a new concept in Hudson Valley Broadcasting built on what he called the "cosmopolitan sound."

The sound will consist of musical clusters and in-depth news reporting, with the highest fidelity reproduction available.

More than $30,000 worth of special equipment has been ordered and modern new studios are being constructed off Van Wagner Road in the Town of Poughkeepsie to create the cosmopolitan sound. While construction of the new facility is proceeding, WSPK will continue to carry the programs of WKIP, the Star Group's AM station in Poughkeepsie.

Arthur reported that the FCC's approval of the call letter change has put in motion a series of steps which will culminate sometime this summer in the switch over to the cosmopolitan sound.

WSPK broadcasting with 50,000 watts of effective radiated power from a tower on Mt. Beacon generates a signal heard clearly from New York City to Albany. Star Broadcasting vice-president Herbert R. Shein has been named general manager of WSPK. WKIP will continue to air the contemporary sound at 1450 on the AM dial.

Miss Brazil's Relaxation: Sleep, Sleep, More Sleep

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Miss Brazil relaxes better than almost anyone at the Miss Universe Pageant.

Sleep might be a better word than relax for the spare minutes of 20-year-old Martha Vasconcellos, an auburn-haired lovely from Salvador in the Brazilian state of Bahia.

Martha stretches out her shapely 5-foot-8 frame backstage whenever she gets a break from rehearsals. She flops on the floor, on chairs, on another contestant's knee, any place, and closes her exotic green eyes.

"I'm lazy anyway," said Miss Brazil during a waking moment at the hairdresser. "There is no time to sleep here. We got to bed at 1 a.m. and they had us up again at 6 a.m."

When we're up it's work, work, work so when they say rest, I snore," said Martha, who was among 15 swimsuit winners in competition Wednesday night.

Miss Brazil won over 28 girls in her state contest, then topped a field of 35 to win the trip to Miami Beach where Miss Universe 1968 will be chosen from a field of 65 Saturday night.

There is at least one distant cheerleader of Miss Brazil who thinks she is Miss Universe material — her fiancé, Renaldo Loureiro, an engineer in Salvador.

"He sends me a telegram every day saying he is happy that I am here," Martha said. "He always tells me I am the most beautiful girl in the world, even before the contest, so if I don't win I think he would still believe it."

Idea Approved For Two-way Freedom Lift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hoping to cut down on hijackings of U.S. passenger planes, the State Department has approved an idea for a two-way "freedom lift" to ferry Cuban refugees out of Cuba and take unhappy refugees back home.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., called the proposed free flights back to Havana "good riddance flights," and suggested they should take "disgruntled Americans" as well as malcontented Cubans.

The State Department said Thursday that, subject to the Cuban government's approval, it would permit Cuban exiles wishing to return home to ride free to Havana aboard the planes which carry Cuban refugees daily to Miami.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said it was hoped the step would "remove some of the incentive that may have led to the hijacking of U.S. commercial airliners" by Cuban exiles bent on returning home. So far this year, five U.S. and two other planes have been hijacked in flight and forced to fly to Cuba.

Fish Critical Of Opponent

Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress, has criticized his Democratic opponent John Dyson, as being "inconsistent and irresponsible."

"I am amazed that my opponent had the gall to take two completely different positions on the same issue in the same speech," he said, referring to a talk Dyson gave this week to the Young Democratic Club of Poughkeepsie.

Fish quotes his opponent as saying, "I wish I had a guaranteed income." At another point he said he was "for jobs and against dole."

In his criticism, Fish said, "Everyone knows the guaranteed income is the biggest and most costly dole program devised by man."

In a second press release, Fish said of Dyson, "I am glad my opponent has found the Hudson River and has joined me in my concern for the problem facing this great gift of nature."

"The threat of pollution in the Hudson River has concerned me for many years. I have personally traveled up and down the river. Two years ago I was on record demanding that this problem be solved. Where was my opponent then?"

U.S. Appeals For Shipments To Aid Starving

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has appealed to the governments of Nigeria and the breakaway state of Biafra to permit food and medicine shipments to help hundreds of thousands of starving persons in rebel-held territory.

In a statement carefully designed not to take sides in the civil war, President Johnson said Thursday:

"While we have no intention of interfering in Nigerian affairs, we do not believe innocent persons should be made the victims of political starvation. Deaths caused by warfare are tragic enough, but mass starvation that can be prevented must be prevented."

Ted Kennedy Allies Need Him Badly Now

By STEVEN GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI)—
Some of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Senate allies—who need him badly right now—are hoping the young lawmaker will return soon to Capitol Hill.

None question his right to mourn his slain brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. But they need his vote to break a logjam on gun control legislation in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Kennedy's absence, coupled with the traditional inability of liberals to muster their own forces, has hurt the forces backing strong gun control legislation.

Vain Attempt

This week, for example, Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., vainly sought committee approval of a bill requiring federal registration and licensing of firearms unless states adopted equally stringent regulations.

Tydings not only could not get the bill to a vote in the committee, but he was forced to

SEN. EDWARD M. KENNEDY swallow some highly unpalatable restrictions.

On two 8-7 votes, the committee excluded rifles and shotguns from the Tydings bill. The committee has 16 members. Kennedy's vote would have produced an 8-8 tie on each and a tie vote defeats any amendment.

Just before the Fourth of July holiday, the committee decided to postpone action on guns legislation until this week. The vote to delay was 7-5.

Kennedy's vote alone could not have reversed the decision, but in conjunction with one or two other absentees, either Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., or George A. Smathers, D-Fla., gun control advocates, could have prevented this delay.

Not Susceptible

It also is highly doubtful that Kennedy's presence would prevent Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., from filibustering the registration and licensing within the committee. Thurmond is not susceptible to emotional appeal.

But Kennedy might have at least received total support from gun control advocates—in the form of faithful attendance. Gun control advocates may still have another chance on the Senate floor where they were

Warn Tourists To Skip Flood Areas of England

LONDON (AP) — Vacationers were warned to stay out of England's flood-stricken West Country today after angry villagers clashed with tourists they took for sightseers.

"Flood victims are in no mood for visitors," said a police spokesman in Somerset. "There is a lot of work to do. Sightseers should remember how they would feel in similar circumstances."

Ruined bridges left only one main road open to the resorts of Devon and Cornwall, on England's southwest toe. Thousands on vacation left for home early, causing some of the worst traffic jams seen in the area as they tried to make their way on secondary roads. The army lifted troops by air to make emergency repairs and help clear the destruction.

At least seven persons died in the raging waters fed by two days of torrential rain. The floods were receding in the West Country, but in the Midlands, the Trent and the Nene were rising, threatening Leicester and Northampton.

Thousands of acres were under water around Leicester. Police and troops worked to reinforce the banks of the Nene, flowing through low-lying farmland.

On the east coast, the counties of Norfolk, Essex and Kent reported heavy crop damage after winds gusting up to 60 miles an hour lashed them.

Collections Show Increase Of $164 Million

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state collected $164 million more taxes during the last three months than in a similar period last year, State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said Thursday.

The collections for April, May and June—the first three months of the fiscal year—totaled $1,142,000,000.

Personal income tax collections, the largest single source of revenue, jumped to $553 million during the three-month period this year, from $465 million in a similar period last year.

Levitt said tax collections last month totaled $465 million—$79 million more than in June 1967.

The state's two per cent sales tax produced $168 million in the first quarter this year and $150 million for the first quarter last year.

County as Tourist Mecca: Great Untapped Potential

EDITOR'S NOTE: In this final article about Ulster County's many vacation possibilities, further development of playlands and tourist attractions are explored.

By JEAN F. DOLAN

With all its natural beauty and living history to attract the vacationer, Ulster County still has a great potential as a tourist mecca.

Preservers of the past and planners for the future have come up with a number of proposals to enhance the county. Restoration projects would utilize such areas as Perrine's Covered Bridge in Rifton and sections of the old Delaware and Hudson Canal in the Towns of Rochester, Wawarsing, Marbletown and Rosendale.

More Than Restoration
The Perrine's Bridge Committee has worked long and hard to save the old span before it fell into the Wallkill River. Just recently the state came through with a grant of $25,000 to be matched by the county for rescue in the nick of time. The bridge has undergone emergency temporary repairs and it is expected authentic restoration will start in the very near future.

The committee plans not only restoration of the historic old bridge but development of an adjacent picnic and parking area.

Another group actively working for preservation, restoration and development of Ulster County landmarks is the D&H Canal Historical Society.

The society has appeared before town planning boards to plead for preservation of existing locks of the old canal which was the lifeline of Ulster County during the 19th century. Proposals have incorporated park plans with the preservation efforts. Towpath nature walks, picnic and camp areas are included in the overall plan.

Ambitious Proposal
The most ambitious proposal was presented to the Ulster County Planning Board in April. Donald G. Ross, president of the canal society, outlined a county park plan incorporating the 5,000 foot portion of the canal near Allgerville which is the only section in Ulster County still water borne. He envisioned an extensive recreation complex with picnic areas, swimming pools and a golf course.

Another concern of the canal devotees is establishment of a museum to house the growing collection of canal data. The most recent donation came from Manville Wakefield, author of "Coal Boats to Tidewater," who stipulated that the gift was contingent on the establishment of a museum. He will give all the Ulster County maps he created for his book on the condition that a canal society museum be in existence.

Two recreation areas are in the works for Ulster County. State parks are planned at Malden and Wittenberg. At present, the county has no state park as such. Belleayre Ski Center and Woodland Valley campsite are the existing state-operated areas.

The Hudson River played a vital role in the settlement and later commerce of Kingston and Ulster County. The great steamboats plied the river route filled with passengers headed for the "gateway to the Catskills."

Kingston Point in its heyday was a great attraction for river visitors and local residents alike. The late Sophie Miller, long-time Freeman columnist, never ceased her fight to restore the Point to its past glories. The era of the gingerbread bandstand in the man made lagoon may have gone with the age of innocence but there are still updated possibilities for the park.

Fittingly, plans include a tree-lined entrance to the beach area in memory of Sophie Miller. Public donations are still being collected. Plantings will be made in the fall under the direction of the city beautification committee headed by Fred Johnson.

The Saugerties lighthouse, no longer used as a beacon to river traffic, has been considered as a likely site for a marine museum.

The possibilities of incorporating Kingston's historic past with present industry in a fall festival has been suggested. Apple harvest time, flaming leaves and hunks of history would make a most appealing combination.

Ulster is unique in its heritage and varied natural beauty. Stone houses in constant everyday use since early days rival restorations such as Williamsburg and Sturbridge.

The marine traditions of the river port which shipped blue-stone, cement and coal to the major cities of the eastern seaboard can at least compete with Mystic by the Sea.

Inflammatory Remark
RICHMOND, England (UPI)—A British court convicted Peter Polish, 19, of using insulting words likely to cause a breach of the peace for shouting "Robert Kennedy deserved to die. I have no sympathy for him or his family. He was shot as all politicians should be."

Neighboring Monroe has created a museum village which is visited by school children from Ulster County. Surely Ulster's heritage could produce a like attraction closer to home.

The Junior League of Kingston has completed an extensive survey of all buildings in the county built before 1850. The legends and history as well as architectural features of the structures were duly recorded. This material should prove invaluable in many ways as a basis for future development, as a guide to local history and as a saver of the past.

What happens now depends on the concern and foresight of today's residents in this unique patch on the map.

River Debris Study

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is conducting a three-year study on the alleviation of debris along the Hudson River shoreline including old abandoned barges, wharfs and other driftwood.

Esopus Supervisor George H. Freer and Robert Courtney, boatsman, attended the June 18 public hearing of the Corps of Engineers in Poughkeepsie. The Town of Esopus shoreline along Rondout Creek and the Hudson is dotted with old barges and other abandoned debris and has been a source of irritation and a hazard to marine navigation for some time.

Former Esopus Supervisor Roger W. Mabie, who is now county legislator for the 7th District, including Esopus has been agitating for some form of action on this matter for quite some time.

At the hearing a representative of the New York City Botanical Gardens told of the animal life in the river such as worms and wood-eating insects which are becoming more abundant as river pollution wanes. He said this eating away of debris will cause much of this material to breakup and move into river channels and this will in the very near future create hazards to marine navigation in the area.

Other area representatives cited the hazards in their particular areas indicating the need for early action in the proposed project to clear up river debris.

Training Center Here for Retarded Children

Nineteen children have been benefiting this year from the services of the Day Training Center for Retarded Children, located on Lindsley Avenue in the former School No. 4 building, Kingston.

Classes are held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. and children range in age from two to 13 years.

The aim of the school is to teach and train each child to his fullest potential. There are volunteers, a certified teacher, certified speech and hearing therapist and three teacher aides in attendance.

Transportation is provided by the Association whenever possible.

Objectives are to provide organized developmental experiences for mentally retarded children in this county who are living at home and are not able or eligible for participation in existing programs. The Association is trying to facilitate home care by developing independence in personal needs, to aid parents to adapt to the stress of a retardate in the family, and to provide means of aiding the family unit to accept the problem.

The Center is under the direction of Mrs. John Schick, teacher; Mrs. Ruth Pidone, assistant; Mrs. Alice Heilman, speech therapist; and Mrs. Donna Mazzola, Mrs. Elsie Kent, teachers' aides.

Requirements for mentally retarded children to enter the program are nominal. The child need not be bathroom trained or be able to talk.

Commitment, the Prime Requirement For Women Who Marry Ministers

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Commitment. This one word sums up the prime requirement for the woman who marries a minister.

Commitment to God, to family, to people. It is a difficult assignment, says one woman married to a clergyman for 35 years, but if you don't have commitment "you might as well go marry a broker."

The words are those of Alice Taylor, wife of the Rt. Rev. George A. Taylor, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Easton, Md. Mrs. Taylor is author of a wise and witty guide to women who marry clergymen. It also should help the congregation, the others in the community in understanding that a minister's wife is human too.

A minister's wife must "set an example for the congregation," Mrs. Taylor says. "So much is expected of her—the health of an Amazon and the dedication of a Florence Nightingale, the patience of Job and the zeal of a Carrie Nation, the peace-loving thoughts of a Gandhi and the fighting spirit of a warrior, the charm of a debutante and the intelligence of a Phi Beta Kappa."

A minister's wife lives in a goldfish bowl, Mrs. Taylor adds, "well aware that it is her sole responsibility to see that the goldfish behave."

"The congregation expects a lot of the minister's wife, whether they admit it or not. If she's too pretty, she's trying to act like a model. If she's dowdy, they don't invite her places."

"She's expected to lead, but if she takes on too much, it deprives others, so she has to encourage leadership elsewhere."

"She has to have the skin of an elephant, because people will hurt her sometimes. And they'll hurt her husband, which multiplies hers."

Mrs. Taylor writes candidly of the role of a clergyman's wife in "How to Be a Minister's Wife and Love It" (Zondervan Publishing House, Grand Rapids, Mich.). And she expressed many of the above thoughts in a telephone interview from her home in Easton, on Maryland's eastern shore. Her husband's diocese embraces "30 clergymen—28 wives and two bachelors," she said.

The book is her first. "I wrote it from compulsion," said Mrs. Taylor. "In recent years, I've had some time to think . . . and to think of all those ministers' wives who don't know what they're getting into."

"I've seen clergymen ruined when a wife didn't undertake her role with commitment, patience, tact . . ."

"I know one whose wife hasn't been in church in four years. Now you know what his congregation says. 'If he can't sell her on religion, how can he sell us?'"

Mrs. Taylor was born in Albany, N.Y., and met her husband when he was assigned to the Ministry St. Paul's Church there. He served as rector at St. David's Church in Baltimore and at St. Paul's, outside Chestertown, Md., before being elected bishop of the Eastern Diocese in 1965. The couple has two sons and two grandchildren.

FLEA MARKET ON SHAKER MUSEUM GROUNDS

Mid-Summer Museum Festival

Area women who enjoy browsing through collectors' items will be interested to know that the 13th annual Shaker Museum Festival will be held on the Museum grounds in Old Chatham on Saturday, Aug. 3.

Russell Carrell will again manage the Flea Market which is becoming an integral part of the traditional summer event.

Carrell is the acknowledged originator of the "Flea Market" in America and while this is the only one organized in this area by Carrell he arranges these popular sales as far away as Michigan and Illinois.

There will be some 100 select dealers participating and Carrell states that due to the popularity of this show he receives unsolicited requests for space months in advance. This Festival is so widely known that dealers from a vast area are to be included. There are dealers from Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and, of course, New York.

There will be a vast selection of items from which the collector of long standing or the neophyte may browse and find something that is irresistible.

Prices are within everyone's means as there are items to be found for 50 cents as well as those costing hundreds of dollars, so the "small fry" may find a gift for Mom as can Dad find a real treasure for "The Little Woman."

As always, there will be a number of rare Shaker items, hand-made early tools, many of which are no longer used but are collected for the fine workmanship they represent, also antique jewelry which thrills the ladies as they visualize the ladies of long ago who wore the beautiful cameo, garnets and other exquisite pieces that will be available. The velvet soft glow of pewter that is so admired today and collected by the connoisseur may be found as well as

CONTRASTING NORMAN NORELL'S last collection — when skirt lengths crept closer to the floor — are the hemlines in his latest presentation for fall previewed in New York on July 8. Typical of his coat silhouette is this number with a large puritan collar, double breasted closing, buttons marching up the sleeves almost to the elbows, and hems above the knee. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

THE SEDATE PACE of Norman Norell's latest collection was jolted when a group of long black wool and silk crepe evening dresses showed up with exposure spots. One had triangular cut outs from the waist to just about as brave as a designer can get. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Guitar Lessons

Happy Traum, the well-known guitarist and folksinger, will once again be giving classes at The Young People's Studio in Woodstock. The summer schedule will include a new beginner's group, an evening class for adults, and a special workshop in blues and fingerpicking techniques for those with a basic knowledge of the guitar.

The beginner's class will be taught the rudiments of song accompaniment drawing from a folk and contemporary pop song repertoire. Students will learn the basic chords and strums, as well as some ear training and theory.

The blues and fingerpicking workshop will discuss and teach the guitar styles of such artists as Brownie McGhee, Mississippi John Hurt, Lightning Hopkins, and Elizabeth Cotten, and will work from some of the selections in Traum's book, Fingerpicking Styles for Guitar. The techniques learned will also be applied to the more popular folk guitar styles of Joan Baez, Tom Paxton, Judy Collins, Phil Ochs and others.

The instructor, Happy Traum, has been a performer and teacher for more than 10 years, and is well known on both the rock and folk scene. He is the author of several books on the guitar, and is currently the editor of Sing Out! the National Folk Song Magazine.

Heat, But Don't Cook

Frankfurters and other smoked sausage links are already cooked. They may be heated but are better if not cooked.

To do this, drop the hot dogs or smoked sausages in boiling water. Cover and let simmer. Simmering temperature is quite a bit below boiling. It's water bubbling around the edges of the pan, just below the surface.

Usually it takes five to ten minutes to heat hot dogs or sausages. Range is given because so much depends upon the size.

its about Scholastic SPORTS

BY MIKE HELFNER

There is no measuring stick available that can determine the efficiency, or lack of it, in a high school athlete who jumps immediately from a just-ending sport to a just-beginning field of combat.

The controversy on this subject still rages. Years of argument, debate, research and theorizing have proven fruitless. Case studies show no consistency.

The group that believes efficiency isn't lost, brings up the names and Saga's of outstanding athletes who have competed in sport after sport without a break—pointing out and saying with certainty—that there was no detracting effect on the athlete's performance.

The opponents of this idea, just as firmly believe that different sports require different conditioning levels and techniques. The player who doesn't allow what they consider sufficient time for, his body and mind to readjust, simply isn't playing to his full potential in any sport. And they claim, may even be hurting himself physically.

NO SIDE HAS CONVINCED the other, nor are they about to at this juncture. One thing is evident and certain: Among larger schools, the three-letter athlete who competes in football, basketball and baseball, this area's three major sports, is almost extinct—a rarity at best.

Double letter winners, whether playing two sports in succession or skipping basketball for a rest, still exist, but are rapidly disappearing.

Schools with smaller enrollments have many boys competing in the "Big Three." This happens because the school: 1) has no policy prohibiting this practice, 2) needs the boy's talent to produce a respectable team, or 3) has such a small registration of boys that manpower-wise, couldn't field a team because there weren't enough boys in the school to divide—one sport per boy.

ADMITTEDLY, A GREAT many schools are trying to have their boys perform in one sport only. Competition is keen, studies suffer. Add physical training and the pressure of winning. These rigors, pushed continuously through three sports a year, exact a tremendous toll on the athlete. Scholastic coaches use this argument as a lever when trying to dissuade a boy from switching to the cage court immediately after the grid season ends.

Basketball is already going strong by the time the grid season ends. Before the hoopsters complete their slate of games, the diamondmen are hard at work. Each sport, say coaches, has different training grinds, different requirements, and most mentors have come to agree that it is difficult for a student-athlete, aged somewhere between 14-18 by state law, to make the switch without experiencing trouble.

The days of Jim Thorpe and other old timers who excelled in more than one battle ground, no less the "Big Three," are long gone. Professional sports took care of that, seeking specialists rather than a player that does fairly well, in many areas—but not a stickout in one.

OF AREA SCHOOLS, Kingston has not a single boy competing in the "Big Three." Those who are gifted athletes, get away from the three by adding a second, and even third sport, exclusive of one of the "Big Three," from among areas considered minor, such as golf, tennis, swimming, cross-country. All have shorter seasons than the "Big Three." All afford the athlete a chance to catch up on his studies, plus allowing his body a chance to readjust and unwind from the previous field of battle.

Newburgh, which relied solely on a handful of players in the past, had just one last year. Middletown had three. NFA and Kingston are the largest of the Section Nine schools, NFA with 1,537 boys, Kingston, 1,497. Middletown numbered 768.

Of the seven UCAL schools plus neighboring Ellenville, enrollments ranging from 380-225 is considered very small next to KHS), all have boys in the "Big Three." The number (3-4 per school) is significantly less than in previous years, and whether consciously or not, the Ellies and the UCAL are adopting the newer and better, we feel, ideas on student-athlete participation.

To this we HURRAY and extend our appreciation for looking more to your student's well-being, than posting a winning record.

Michael's, Boo's Close In on Top

Bob's Tavern of the Met Division and Michael's Barber Shop, playing in the Yankee Division, both moved to within a half-game of their respective division leaders Thursday night, taking lopsided decisions in the Saugerties Softball League.

Boo's, now 8-2 after last night's 13-7 breeze over fading King's Diner, trails Ted's Esso 9-2 charting. Boo's was victorious despite being out-hit, 10-6. Michael's, triumphant by a 13-0 count in six (the league 10-run rule was applied), is in third in the Yankee standings with a 6-2 charting. Leader Glasco AC is at 6-1 while South Side Men's Club, 8-2, stands second.

Jamie Todaro, King's moundsman, held the Tavernmen hitless over the first three frames while his teammates were putting up a 4-0 lead on a first-inning outburst.

Boo's a heavy hitting team, switched tactics, going to the bunt for hits, stealing bases, driving Todaro wild with style of ball that marks the Chicago White Sox, and it proved successful. The Tavernmen came up with eight in the fourth and four more in the sixth plus another in the seventh to triumph.

Todaro allowed Boo's just six singles, but walked nine and fell victim to seven teammate errors.

A barrage of home runs, six in all, by Michael's spelled defeat for winless Ed LaHaye and Paul's. Jim Farrell, Joe Benjamin, Bob Speirs and Bill Fischer each stroked one while Bill Schirmer belted a pair. Fischer's was worth three RBIs.

A seven-hit, four-run sixth did it for the Barbers, giving them a 13-3 lead at the end of that frame and allowed hurler Mouse Wolven to chalk up his second three-hitter of the week.

Sanders-Yancey in Tie

By MIKE HUGHES

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (UPI)—Doug Sanders and Bert Yancey battled bone-chilling winds and light rain today to post a 73 and 74, respectively, and deadlock for the early third round lead in the British Open golf tournament at 227.

Ferraro's Single Helps

Mike Ferraro triggered a third-inning rally with an infield single, as the Syracuse Chiefs defeated the Toledo Mud Hens, 3-0, last night in the International League at Syracuse.

Dave McDonald and Len Boehmer slammed successive doubles, behind Ferraro's single for two runs. The Chiefs' Tommie Martz added the finishing touch in the sixth with a solo homer.

John Cumberland pitched a four-hitter to lead the Chiefs to the 500 plateau in the standings in their bid for a first division spot under new manager Frank Verdi.

The redhot Rochester Red Wings maintained their 2½ game lead by whipping the

In 46 innings of CSL competition, Albertini reports, Ong has yet to allow a run, yielded only 10 hits, walked but four and struck out 69. He had 14 whiffs last night in gaining the decision over Bill Stokes, who gave up seven hits, all singles, in the seventh.

Ong flirted with another perfect game last night. He retired the first 18 men in a row. He had two strikes on Nick Berardi when the latter broke the spell in the seventh.

12 Straight Wins

Ong and his pitching partner, Ray Mariucci, have kept Red Whites undefeated with 12 straight victories in the local circuit. There is little likelihood the current New York State champions will lose a game in the Kingston circuit.

Chet Zampko's single, Joe Molinaro's single and steal of home accounted for two White runs in the second inning. Molinaro's sacrifice fly scored Tony Kimer after two errors set up the play.

The two White runs had a ring of authenticity in the fifth inning. Kimer beat out an infield single, Tom King singled to center, King stole second and both came home on Bob McKenna's single.

Announcer Ron DeWillers Is Man Geared for Many Seasons

By CHRIS GEHMAN

Freeman Sports Staff

When he began announcing horse shows more than 18 years ago, Ron DeWillers of Woodstock had no idea that his interests would expand to include an ambulance, a patrol boat, two cars and a van chock full of electronic equipment.

DeWillers is president of two corporations and supervises four separate business operations, any one of which would suffice to occupy the time of an average man.

DeWillers was introduced to horse show announcing as a lad of 14. He had already installed a sound system for the yacht club near his Great Neck, L.I. home, and was working on several other projects when Otis Trowbridge, whom DeWillers describes as "the grand-daddy of all horse show announcers," asked him to help set up the five-day North Shore horse show. DeWillers' association with horse shows flowered into one of his major business interests.

Does Many Shows

Although the primary use for his sound equipment is at horse shows—he may do as many as 75-80 separate shows in a single year—DeWillers provides sound for all occasions and locations. Drag races, motorcycle scrambles and races, parades, and even yacht regattas have used DeWillers' versatile L.I. setups.

Arriving at a horse show with a van full of two-way radios, intercoms, switchboards, speaker systems, microphones and other electronic paraphernalia, DeWillers keeps the whole operation running smoothly. A large show with several rings and a stables area, declares DeWillers, "is rather like a four ring circus." Something is always happening somewhere.

His basic area of operations is in New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, from the early spring to late fall. In the winter, he shifts south to several shows on the sunshine circuit in southern Florida.

Has Other Interests

Other business interests include a telephone answering service, background music system installation and burglar and fire alarms on the electronic side, to security patrols and an invalid coach service, which make use of his patrol boat and ambulance, respectively.

What's more, he is also a professional ice skater. DeWillers picked up that trade as a boy in Great Neck. His mat appearance on his first visit to the Great Neck Ice Skating Rink prompted Clinton Perry, (2), Team No. 9 (1); Allstate as an instructor.

Sportsmen Clubs Note Donations

Meeting for the third time, the Saugerties Area Sportsmen's Clubs, an ad hoc group organized to oppose gun registration, reported donations and collections totalling $39.86. A pledge of $25 from the Saugerties club was also noted. The fund will be used to defray costs of a public questionnaire on gun legislation.

A report was heard on comparable costs of sending questionnaires by mail or inserting them in local newspapers. A questionnaire will be drafted and presented to the committee at its next meeting Friday, July 12, at 7:30 p. m.

Bob Schiavone of the Saugerties club reported that time would be available on a Kingston radio station for a debate on gun legislation.

Phantom Fling Takes to MR in a Hurry

MONTICELLO—It didn't take Phantom Fling very long to get used to the tighter turns of a half-mile track, because last night at Monticello Raceway's double oval (only his second trip away from five-eighths mile tracks, he scored an easy three-length victory in the featured $2,000 trot, racing the mile in 2:06.2.

With Fred Bradbury cracking the whip from the two alley, Phantom Fling sat second behind the rail horse, Dede Hanover, for a half-mile, then zoomed by with ease and won going away.

The bay horse, five years old and the son of Newport Dream, Fling Hanover by Hoot Mon, moved up to second at the first quarter, coming in two-lengths behind Dede in :31.1

Owned by the Bold Venture Stables of Pine Bush, the Fling went outside coming down for the half, which went in 1:04.4, but didn't pass Dede and driver Bob Camper until a step before the three-fourths. The time there was 1:35.3.

Without having to use the whip on the 8-5 favorite, Bradbury let him have his head and the Fling pulled away by three coming home. A trio of fast closers, Beau Brummel (5), Faber Mar Mic (7) and Ronnie Star (4) all passed the fading Dede Hanover.

In Dede's last six starts, she has alternated winning, then winding up seventh. This was the filly's turn to win, but she had very little left after cutting out the mile.

As the heavy favorite, The Fling paid $5.40, 3.60 and 2.30 for the win, Beau Brummel, who got up for second, returned $4.60 and 3.00 while Faber Mar

Homers Win for Ted's, Michael's In Saugerties

Mickey Iannone drove in six runs with a pair of home runs and a double to lead Michael's Barber Shop to a 13-4 romp over winless Paul's Shell in the Yankee Division. Don O'Connor blasted a three-run homer in the sixth to give Ted's Esso, the Met leader, an 11-1, rule-batted, five-and-a-half innings victory over McConekey's Funeral Home. Both games were in the Saugerties Softball League.

Iannone belted a three-run job in the third, followed it with a solo homer in the fifth and then poked a two-run double in the sixth, completing a perfect 3-for-3 night.

O'Connor, whose circuit blast sparked a five-run sixth inning rally, now heads the Met home run derby with three round-trippers.

The triumph put Michael's (5-2) a game out of first while Ted's (9-2) increased its lead to one in the other division.

Ted's raked loser Ed Pelham for 10 hits, eight of them singles, plus 13 walks.

Both winning hurlers, Maurice Hinchey for Ted's and Mouse Wolven of Michael's, tossed three-hitters.

The Communications' Reply

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —

Representatives of the communications field appeared

Thursday night in an ABC-TV hour, "Bias and the Mass Media" — Part II, responding to views of Negroes on a previous program. It was the second broadcast of the net-

for Americans," about the race issue.

On the first broadcast, two weeks ago, the all-Negro panel consisted of entertainers Harry

Belafonte and Lena Horne; poet-critic-essayist Larence Neal and Dr. Alvin Poussaint, assistant psychiatry professor at Tufts University Medical School. And that hour was billed by ABC-TV as "an indictment of racism as it exists in

and television, advertising, newspapers and magazines."

Thursday night's panel consisted of Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review;

Herbert Kamm, editorial

consultant of the Scripps —

Howard newspapers; Elmer

Lower, president of ABC News;

Edward P. Morgan, chief correspondent of the Public

Broadcast Laboratory; Dan

Seymour, president of the J.

Walter Thompson Advertising

Agency, and James C. Hagerty,

ABC vice president in charge of corporate relations.

No Continuation Scheduled

Forget, for a moment, the specific content and particular quality of the two broadcasts to date. What is really important is that they have been done, and in prime time, and are a sort of beginning. And how much more reassuring the whole project would seem if only such a meaty series were on the television schedule when the main season starts in September. At present, not a single commercial network has

along these lines on the fall

What defied explanation on

fact that not a single representative was on hand from the two visual communications areas

entertainment. The incredible result was that this overall field escaped with barely a mention. And despite Mr. Seymour's

easily too.

A consequence of all this, an

of the composition of the panel, was that the news media —

noting how an executive, seeking a Negro secretary, will look for a combination of Lena

Horne and Marian Anderson — and, failing to get that, will hire

a white girl, comforting himself with the thought that at least

There was agreement by all of the panel that more black workers should be trained, employed and given responsibility in the various media.

Frank Reynolds was effective in posing the black viewpoint that Negroes do not merely want to be fitted into the white

positions of authority right

their own outlook on equal terms.

The third broadcast of the series, "Newark: Anatomy of a Riot," will be presented on ABC-

TV Sunday at 4 p.m. EDT.

Biafra Mercy Mission

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The chief of a British mercy mission sought a meeting today with Nigerian government chief Yakubu Gowon as he tried to arrange delivery of more relief supplies to millions of starving war refugees in secessionist Biafra.

Lord Hunt was rebuffed by a Nigerian army commander Thursday when he asked that Port Harcourt, the closest port to the Biafran area, be designated a forwarding point for tons of food piling up outside the war-torn country.

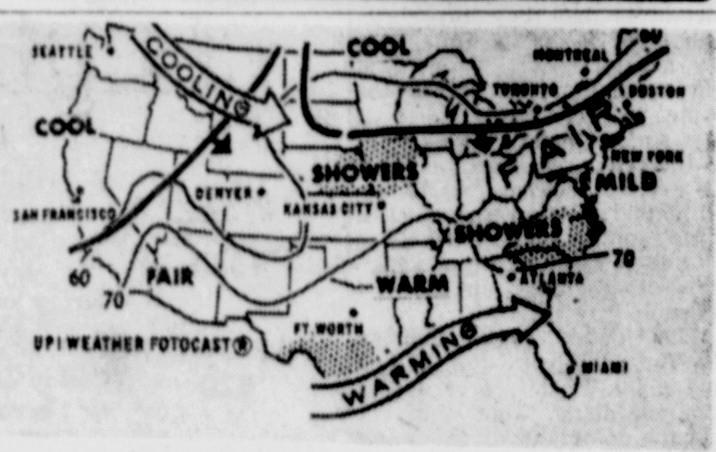

He reported that Col. Benjamin Adekunle, commanding the federal government's forces along the eastern coast reserved the port facilities for military needs. Lord Hunt said the colonel was a single-minded soldier who puts winning the war ahead of the refugee problem.

Adekunle told newsmen he did not favor foreigners entering war areas and "disturbing" the fighting. He was reported angered by Lord Hunt's visit.

Lord Hunt also visited the town of Ikot Ekpene, in a refugee-choked area 50 miles north-east of Port Harcourt. As he was leaving, the town was attacked by rebel Biafran troops, but they were driven back by Nigerian federal forces.

An estimated 4.5 million refugees are crammed into the 10,000 square miles still held by the Biafran government in eastern Nigeria. The Lagos government, which has the territory under blockade, has offered to let relief convoys through a road corridor controlled by federal forces, but the Biafrans refuse to accept this because of the political implications of such Lagos control and because they fear Lagos will poison the food.

HHH: East-West Reconciliation, Urges Backing of Talks in Paris

By United Press International
Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey issued a policy statement on international relations today which called for "reconciliation" of East and West, but for the most part skirted the Vietnam issue.

In a brief reference to the war, the Democratic presidential contender reiterated his desire for a political settlement and said at this point the best hope for achieving this is the Paris talks.

Political Settlement
"I want to end that war," Humphrey said. "I want to end it the only way it can be ended — by a political settlement."

"I want a political settlement which will permit the people of South Vietnam — all the people of South Vietnam — to shape their own future. And I want to see a cease-fire at the earliest possible moment."

He added that right now "the most effective peace effort we can make is to back our negotiating team in Paris."

Humphrey, who has been under pressure to declare his current attitude toward President Johnson's commitment in Vietnam, said last weekend he was withholding comment on the war because of the Paris talks.

The Vice President took pains while suggesting new directions for U. S. foreign policy to avoid leaving the implication there was something to be desired in its past handling.

He said the cold war is waning, Communist countries no longer pose a monolithic threat, and Western Europe and Japan can now "stand on their own two feet" — "successes," he said, that "demand a shift from policies of confrontation and containment to policies of reconciliation and peaceful engagement."

Humphrey, forced by a stubborn case of flu to forego West Coast presidential campaign appearances, issued the position paper in Washington. He billed it as a "major statement."

Eugene J. McCarthy — The Minnesota Democrat took the Johnson administration to task for what he said was "failure to make use of federal funds to help feed the hungry Americans. He said the food stamp and surplus commodity distribution programs "have clearly failed to allay hunger."

Ronald Reagan — Dismissing as "a total fabrication" a published report that he will announce his candidacy for the GOP presidential nomination July 21, the California governor told reporters "I have not changed my position." He is the favorite son candidate of his state's Republicans, but has indicated he will consider himself a genuine candidate once his name is in nomination.

Nelson A. Rockefeller — The New York governor drew 10,000 spectators in a cheering ticker tape parade down Wall Street. He told the throng, when he could make himself heard, that "I have come to Wall Street to offer the Republican party a choice... the people are tired of the old politics. They want a new leadership that is unafraid of change."

Powell Conviction Upheld, No Decision on Another Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1966 conviction of former Rep. Adam Clayton Powell on a charge of criminal contempt of court, which led to a 30-day jail sentence and a $500 fine, has been upheld by a three-to-two vote of the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court.

The ousted congressman's lawyer, Henry R. Williams, said after the ruling Thursday that no decision had been made yet on whether to take the case to the Court of Appeals, New York State's highest tribunal.

The 59-year-old Powell, who has been elected as a Democratic congressman from Harlem for more than 20 years, was reported to be on Bimini, his favorite island retreat in the Bahamas.

Thursday's ruling came after eight years of litigation over Powell's failure to pay a defamation judgment won by a 71-year-old Harlem widow who Powell called a "bag woman" — collector of graft for police-men — on a 1960 television program. It apparently made Powell subject to arrest if he came into New York State without making a further appeal and obtaining a parole from a judge of the Court of Appeals.

The amount of the defamation judgment to Esther James went up and down drastically over the years as more than a dozen state judges issued opinions on Powell's conduct in the case. Some time ago, Powell cleared himself of a civil complaint conviction by paying more than $56,000 to Mrs. James.

not specify at what point contempt of court in a civil case becomes serious enough to be considered criminal contempt.

A Tax on the Vatican?

By EDWARD MAGRI

ROME (AP) — Caretaker Premier Giovanni Leone, trying to rebuild a majority center-left coalition by fall, is seeking Socialist support with a promise to make the Vatican pay taxes on the dividends it collects in Italy.

The promise helped his Christian Democratic minority government win a vote of confidence Thursday night in the Chamber of Deputies. The vote was 263-252, with 88 abstentions by Socialists and Republicans who could have turned the government out by voting no.

Leone's government is expected to complete its mandate to govern until fall by winning another vote of confidence in the Senate next week.

Taxing the Vatican is something no other Italian government ever dared mention. Leone's proposal would require the Vatican to pay the 30 per cent dividend tax every other Italian investor pays. This would include $8 million to $11 million in arrears dating back to 1963, when the tax took effect.

The premier's problem is to put through enough reform legislation to satisfy the Socialists before their party congress this fall, when they will decide whether to rejoin the Christian Democrats to form a majority government. There is no other feasible way to form a majority in the Chamber of Deputies.

The Socialists quit the center-left coalition after the May 19 election, blaming their election losses on failure of the dominant Christian Democrats to accomplish enough reforms to keep leftist voters from swinging to the Communists.

On the other hand, Leone's plans for reform face a stiff fight from the right wing of his own party. He hopes to mollify this faction by not pressing for other Socialist programs, like a divorce law.

in the tax matter. An unsigned note in the paper said he did not consult the Vatican beforehand and thus "disregarded the elementary rules of international law."

The article also implied that Leone was trying to break the 1929 Italian-Vatican concordat, which granted the Church broad exemption from taxation.
